DEATH HOUSE FOR DI STASIO

Frank Di Stasio, 54-year-old Revere candy maker condemned to die in the electric chair the week beginning August 1, probably will be transferred tomorrow from East Cambridge jail to state prison and the death house.

His son, Anthony Di Stasio, 24, first man ever to be condemned to death as an accessory before the fact to murder, is sentenced to go to the chair the week of September 13.

With the father's transfer to state prison it will be the first time the pair have been separated since their arrest. They exercise and eat together daily.

Both were convicted in connection with the Hudson "torch slaying" of Daniel Crowley, a West End laborer, at Hudson on May 6, 1935.

Hit by Auto

Natick, July 22—Arthur Colonna, of Hillside street, Framingham, was recovering from injuries today received when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Miss Lea Swanson, 19, of Needham.

Hornsby Plans Suit for $30,000 Salary

St. Louis, July 22 (INS)—Rogers Hornsby, baseball's storm petrel who was fired as manager of the St. Louis Browns, today indicated that he may take his case to court.

"They (the Browns) owe me $30,000," Hornsby declared. "That's how much I figure. My contract called for $20,000 a season and covered two years, and they handed me the slip after I had served only half of this year's schedule. I feel that I have a just claim."

President Donald L. Barnes of the Browns, who fired Hornsby, declared:

"Let Hornsby fight. We will welcome a court battle. But, I don't think he will go that far. We dismissed him for 'cause.' I am certain that Hornsby knows the full meaning of 'cause.'"

Hornsby said that he planned to present his case to attorneys today. He added:

TO DELAY BLAST

"This isn't the first time I've been fired. Another thing, I've been fired off better ball clubs than the Browns. After I get my financial matter straighened out, then I may have something to say about my case, and I might do some talking about some of the players. When I say 'the players' I mean Jim Bottomley and Rollie Hemsley.

"I'm not sore at Bottomley for 100 Piggies Go to Market

One hundred little pigs—well, probably not so little—went to market at Deer Island House of Correction today, and pretty soon they will be hams and chops and the like under direction of a Dorchester concern.

The 100 pigs, totaling 20,791 pounds in weight, were raised at the House of Correction and were sold to the Dorchester firm for $10.65 a hundredweight, as the highest bid.

Out of the deal the city received $2214.24.

Radio Error Adds to Confusion Over Mystery Sea Hop

New York, July 22 (AP)—The mystery of a plane reported flying across the Atlantic to Europe became deeper and darker today as American and Canadian radio men stood by for further word.

A message picked up by Radio Marine Corporation's station at Chatham, Mass., said the plane had been seen and heard 500 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland, at 9:04 Eastern Daylight Time, last night.

Chatham picked up the message from the American freighter Scanmail, which relayed it from another ship it identified as the British freighter Ranee, whose call letters are GSPV.

But the Ranee, it was learned, is in the West Indies, and radio men at Chatham now think the Scanmail radio operator made a mistake in receiving the call letters.

NEW SUSPECT NEAR SCENE OF MURDER

By ARTHUR J. QUINN

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Providence, July 22—A corps of detectives was turned loose today in the neighborhood where Dr. George W. Webster was slain with orders to find a man who boarded a trolley car a half mile away only twenty minutes after the murder. This man is believed to be the possible slayer.

Each investigator was equipped with a detailed description of the man sought, furnished by Patrick A. Mills, "owl car" motorman, who gave police this latest lead.

In the light of the fact that a box of cartridges, identical with the bullets fired from the murder gun, was found only a few hundred yards from the spot where this man boarded the trolley car, authorities regard this latest clue as invaluable.

COVER WHOLE AREA

Detectives assigned to this detail were on a house-to-house canvass within an area bounded by North Main street, Hillside street, Mt.

Roosevelt Quits Scout Leadership

New York, July 22 (AP)—The resignation of President Roosevelt from the presidency of the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York, a post he had held for 15 years, was announced today by the foundation's executive committee.

Barron G. Collier, acting president since 1928, also resigned. He said President Roosevelt asked to have his resignation tendered so the post could go to "somebody nearer the picture."

Business Women Name Miss White

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22 (AP)—Miss Earlene White, postmistress to the United States Senate, was nominated without opposition today to succeed Miss Charl Ormond Williams, also of Washington, as president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Delegates will elect officers tomorrow.

MAYOR IS AGAIN SQUELCHED AT CODMAN QUIZ

Aroused at introduction of previous Finance Commission reports, one of which mentioned John F. McCarthy, his campaign manager, Mayor Mansfield today interrupted the commission's hearing on the Codman Hill Construction Co.

The mayor came to his feet with a protest against the reading of "irrelevant reports," but was overruled.

Mayor Mansfield had heard Eliot Wadsworth, Chamber of Commerce president and White Fund trustee, testify that the mayor did not volunteer any information to the trustees about the large expenses for repairs, all done by the Codman Hill outfit.

The mayor is chairman of the board of trustees of the White Fund.

AMAZING, SURPRISING

Wadsworth admitted that certain features of the conduct of the fund's business were surprising, amazing and mysterious.

The earlier Finance Commission reports were then introduced by George R. Farnum, special counsel for the Finance Commission, who pointed out these reports dealt with alleged favoritism to three contracting concerns.

One of these reports, made in April, last year, stated that John F. McCarthy, campaign manager for Mansfield in his 1933 election as mayor, was head of the Atlas Contracting Co., one of the allegedly favored companies.

"I object. This has nothing to do with the White Fund investigation," said Mayor Mansfield, interrupting Attorney Farnum.

NAMED CODMAN FIRM

The mayor was overruled by Chairman David Lasker of the Finance Commission who told Far-

Urges U. S. Rule Of Palestine

BULLETIN

London, July 21 (AP)—Geoffrey Mander, Liberal member of Parliament, proposed today that Great Britain hand over to the United States its mandate over Palestine, Jewish homeland.

Mander gave notice that he will ask Prime Minister Chamberlain Tuesday whether "in view of the British government's unwillingness to continue to administer its mandate for Palestine," the prime minister will "consider proposing to the League of Nations that it should be offered to the United States.

By THOMAS C. WATSON

(Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service)

London, July 22—The British government's plan to break up Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states suffered its first definite setback in a stormy session of the House of Commons that ended early today.

Confronted with powerful opposition even within its own party ranks, the Neville Chamberlain cabinet dropped its demand for immediate Parliamentary endorsement of the partition plan.

The government bowed to a proposal by former Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill, amended by wartime Prime Minister David Lloyd George, that the whole issue be placed squarely in the lap of the League of Nations.

Thus, the government averted the possibility of a defeat in its own parliament on the proposal, submitted by a royal commission and supported in a cabinet White Paper, that an Arab and a Jewish state, together with a British-man-

Stolen Plane Lands in Marsh, Hits Wires

Gloucester, July 22—New England had a new kind of thief here today when an airplane stolen from its hangar in Salisbury was forced down, after ripping through telephone and electric light wires, on the marshland near Good Harbor Beach.

First crime of its type here, police were baffled today by the fact that nobody knew how the plane was taken from its hangar at Salisbury Airport, where it had been kept by its joint owners, Louise and Warren Frothingham and John Polando, noted flier.

PILOT VANISHES

Its mysterious pilot disappeared up the beach shortly after the plane came down.

All telephone service and electric lights were out of commission both at Long Beach and at Brier Neck summer colony.

According to Raymond Holland, of Gloucester, who was on the beach at the time, the plane roared into the wires shortly after midnight.

He reported the matter to Patrolman Albert E. Noble, who discovered that nearly 100 feet of wire had been ripped. The plane, a Taylor cub ship, was little damaged.

HANGAR UNLOCKED

Polando, who made the famous flight from New York to Turkey with Russell Boardman in July, 1931, reported to Salisbury police that the door of the hangar was unlocked.

He had no idea of how the plane was flown away without anybody at the airport noticing it.

ROOSEVELT'S COURT 'PACK PLAN' DEAD

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, July 22—In a complete surrender to the opponents of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill, the administration today agreed to re-committing it to the Senate Judiciary committee for general revision.

This will eliminate all the proposed fundamental changes in the federal judiciary.

This procedure was agreed upon by Vice-President Garner and Senator Barkley, the newly elected Democratic leader, at a lengthy conference with the Senate Judiciary Committee. Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, head of the opposition, also attended the conference and approved the agreement.

TO "IMPROVE PROCEDURE"

The bill will be recommitted at the "request" of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The "request" was adopted by the committee on motion of Senator Burke (D.) of Nebraska, one of the bitterest foes of the President's original bill.

The "request," however, was coupled with instructions to redraft the bill to improve procedure in the federal courts, but without any reference to the Supreme Court or any fundamental change in federal jurisprudence.

This would eliminate not only the President's request for an enlargement of the Supreme Court but also his suggestion for creation of a "proctor" to oversee the lower federal courts and his request for authority to appoint "roving judges" into lower courts.

Garner acted as the "peacemaker" at this session of the com-num he could read the entire report.

The report called attention of the mayor to "work given by the city public works department to favored contractors without adequate protection of the city's interests," and added that "this situation has become a public scandal."

"Split contracts have become the rule rather than the exception," the document continued, according to Attorney Farnum's reading of it.

Among the concerns named in the report, as read by Farnum, was the Codman Hill Construction Co.

SURPRISED MAYOR

Attorney Farnum then asked the witness, Wadsworth:

Q—After the mayor received a report like this, mentioning the Codman concern, and when it began to appear on statements or invoices going over his desk showing work piling up to the Codman concern, can you account for the mayor not having brought this to your attention? A—I should think he would have.

Q—Did he bring it to the attention of the trustees? A—Not to my knowledge.

Q—When this investigation began this Spring, and discussions took place at trustee meetings, at which you were one of the chief inquisitors, did the mayor express surprise that the Codman Hill Construction Co. got all this work? A—I think he expressed surprise that it added up to such a large figure.

Q—Didn't you say to the mayor, "Every one of these Codman Hill bills passed over your desk"? A—Yes, and he said they were voluminous bills and he signed them.

REMINDED MAYOR

Q—Did you remind him that the totals were before him, even if he didn't examine the items, A—Yes.

Q—Well, how then was he surprised at the total? A—He can tell you that.

Q—Was the mayor surprised that the Codman Hill Construction Company got all this work? A—No, I don't think so.

Wadsworth agreed with Farnum that it was very surprising that the manager of the White Fund, Major Roswell G. Hall, who is superintendent of public buildings for the city, failed to keep the trustees informed of the large expenditures for repairs on White Fund property.

He also agreed that it might be termed "one of the mysteries of this case" that City Auditor Charles J. Fox did not call the trustees' attention to the expenditures, all made to one company.

Fox is a White Fund trustee and auditor of the fund.

SURPRISED, HE SAYS

Finally Wadsworth said there had been no information supplied by George Driscoll, White Fund secretary, either.

The witness stated, however, that as a trustee he was aware that much of the property owned by the White Fund, a $5,000,000 public benefaction, had to be rehabilitated.

But he never knew the Codman Hill Construction Co. was getting all the business, he said, and he confessed to being very much surprised when he learned it.

"Wasn't the disappearance of the Codman Hill books, when we wanted them for this investigation, an amazing thing?" asked Farnum.

"Very," said Wadsworth.

"ORGANIZED MIRACLES"

"Very much like a miracle, wasn't it?" pursued Farnum.

"Yes, but miracles are sometimes organized," said the witness.

After a bitter wrangle among themselves last night, the five members of the Finance Commission buried the hatchet today.

Members of the commission had stormed at Chairman David Lasker for visiting the home of Judge Harold P. Williams of Superior Court with Hubert C. Thompson, counsel for Thomas J. Flanagan, jailed Codman Hill accountant.

They declared that Lasker, without consulting them, recommended the release of Flanagan, who had been jailed for contempt, for failing to produce the Codman Hill books.

Flanagan was released yesterday but Lasker asserted he recommended release only if Flanagan agreed to help the commission find the books, which Codman officials reported stolen.

Judge Williams said he released Flanagan because the latter was a subordinate in the company and had already served 21 days and because no evidence was produced to show he was now in a position to hand over the books.

Mattern to Fly in Race With Sun

Los Angeles, July 22 (INS)—Aviator Jimmy Mattern today announced he would arrange his non-stop San Diego to Moscow flight so as to pass Fairbanks, Alaska, for the North Pole at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Mattern, who says he hopes to shave 20 hours off the time made by Russian aviators coming the other way, plans to leave next month.

By leaving Fairbanks early in the morning he will have the sun on the horizon all the way.

George Brent Sues For Annulment

Los Angeles, July 22 (US) — George Brent secretly filed suit for the annulment of his Mexican marriage of May 10 to Constance Worth, Australian film actress, it was revealed here.

In the brief complaint the romantic actor and former husband of Ruth Chatterton merely stated that he and Miss Worth did not comply with the Mexican marriage law when they eloped to Tia Juana.

Indicating that the actress may fight her husband's suit, court records disclosed that she has retained counsel.

Decatur, Ala., July 22 (AP)—The death penalty demand was waived for a second "Scottsboro" defendant today when Charlie Weems went to trial on a charge of participating in a mass attack by nine Negroes on two white women.

The state first waived capital punishment for Andy Wright last week. Imprisonment of 99 years was decreed yesterday for Wright by the 10th tribunal to return a conviction in the six-year-old case.

Jamestown Bridge Bond Sale Checked

Providence, July 22 (AP) — The State Supreme Court ruled today the Jamestown Bridge Commission, created at the last session of the legislature to build a tax exempt toll bridge connecting Jamestown and North Kingstown, over Narragansett bay, has no authority to issue bonds bearing the implication they are revenue bonds of the State of Rhode Island.

The court said that any attempt to sell the bonds on the basis of the prospectus already issued would threaten the act with unconstitutionality.

DUST OFF TAGS IN QUINCY

On and after August 1, Quincy will no longer be a "parkers' paradise," Mayor Thomas F. Burgin announced today.

One of the few remaining holdouts against the statewide "no-fix" tagging system, Quincy will fall into line on that date, the mayor said.

It was all very well in the beginning to be lenient with parkers, but they took too many advantages, he declared, and main streets were becoming impassable.

A mounted policeman—first in the city's history—and three special tagging patrolmen will be assigned to warn would-be longtime parkers. If warnings fail, tags will follow.

Decision to adopt the "no-fix" system was made at a conference between the mayor, Police Chief John J. Avery, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants' Association.

Washington, July 22 (INS)—Spending at the rate of more than $5,000,000 per working day since the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, WPA faces the task of slashing its expenditures by 39 per cent, or run into another deficit before next July, officials said today.

At the present average $5,053,950 a day spending rate WPA would need $1,844,591,000 for the fiscal year whereas it received only $1,325,000,000 from the $1,500,000,000 fund.

Girl Believed Slain in Inn Blaze

New Baltimore, Mich, July 22 (INS)—Mary Jane Mohan, 14-year-old Detroit high school girl, was found dead in the charred ruins of the Daybreak Inn today with her skull crushed.

Mayor Harold Engelman and police, ordering a state-wide manhunt for Jim McCormick, a dishwasher, declared they believed she was attacked, murdered and buried in the fire which destroyed the inn.

Mrs. Blanche Mohan, the girl's mother, and her stepfather, Kenneth Mohan, escaped by leaping from a second-story window.

The girl's body was found in the dining room ruins, directly under McCormick's room.

Figures and Scenes in Norton vs. Elder Case, Opening Today

MANY SURPRISE WITNESSES DUE TO TESTIFY AT HEARING ON 'ATTEMPT TO MURDER CHARGE

1 S. Allan Norton, former cashier of Mt. Hermon School for Boys, who accused Thomas E. Elder, former dean of the school, with threatening him with a shotgun on the night of last May 25 at Greenfield. The two men were long associated together at the famous school.

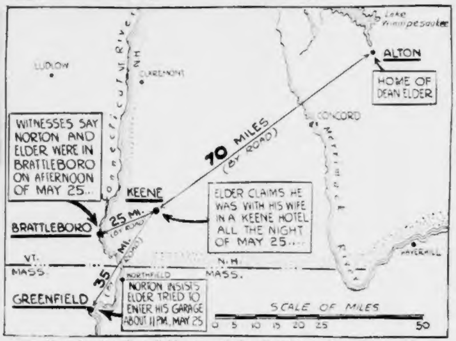
2 Thomas E. Elder, ex-dean of Mt. Hermon School, who goes on trial in Superior Court at Greenfield, on an indictment charging assault with intent to murder Norton by accosting him outside the Norton garage in Greenfield. In lower court, Elder was held for the grand jury.

3 The Norton home and garage on Haywood street, Greenfield. Norton in lower court testified he put his car away, that Mrs. Norton entered the house, and that then "Tom" Elder appeared in a long, trailing coat, from under which a gun was drawn. Ordered back into the garage, Norton said, he dashed for the kitchen door and shouted to his wife to call police. Elder, had previously told police he was in Keene, N. H., that night.

4 Mrs. Edith Weymouth, bank clerk and neighbor of the Nortons, who said she saw an out-of-state sedan in Haywood street and later heard it speed away, on the night of the 25th of May.

5 Miss Yvonne Arsenault, maid in another Haywood street house, said she heard voices and saw two men, one with a gun, and that the latter suddenly dashed for a car and drove away.

6 Another photo of former Dean Elder, this one made in the hotel room at Keene, N. H., where, according to police, Elder, when questioned, said he spent all the night of May 25 with his wife, 35 miles from Greenfield, where Norton alleged he recognized the former dean of Mt. Hermon School. Elder presented no defense at the district court trial preceding grand jury indictment.



7 Map showing Greenfield, scene of the alleged assault on Norton; Brattleboro, Vt., where Elder and Norton are both said to have visited May 25; also Keene, N. H., where Elder said he spent that night, and Alton, N. H., where Mr. and Mrs. Elder have lived since his retirement as dean of Mt. Hermon School for Boys, which the famous evangelist, Dwight Moody, founded many years ago at Northfield.

Bares Worry of Hollywood

Bay State Girl Cites Danger of Being 'Typed'

Centerville, July 22—Few young actresses "come back alive" from Hollywood, in the opinion of Jane Barnes, 22-year-old Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starlet, who came back alive enough to play ingenues in the Mary Young theater here after three years before the cameras in California.

Miss Barnes was born and educated in Mansfield, Mass., schools and a finishing school in Connecticut.

She delivered her opinion of Hollywood's effect on young talent after completing engagements in "All's Fair," with Dorothy Stone and Charles Collins, and "Stop Light," opposite Carlyle Moore, Jr.

"I think the greatest danger to a young actress in Hollywood is being typed—and usually for no discernible reason. For a number of pictures, for instance, I was cast as a young mother," Miss Barnes said.

RESEMBLES CONNIE

"But here in summer stock I have had two widely different parts in two widely different plays. In 'All's Fair' I was a breezy debutante, and in 'Stop Light' I was the harassed sister of a counterfeiter.

Audiences at the Cape Cod theater have found that the bronze-haired, slender Miss Barnes has the warm vitality of Constance Bennett, whom she greatly resembles.

As an apprentice at the Phidelah Rice Theater, at Martha's Vineyard, she was discovered by a Twentieth Century-Fox scout and given a screen test and contract. Three years in the movies have made her conscious of the importance of stage training as a basis for motion picture work.

"I had been in Hollywood long enough to know it takes more than a pretty face and a shapely figure to be a success in the movies," she said. "Besides I wanted to come East to see my family."

BROADWAY AMBITIONS

After working under her Twentieth Century-Fox contract, Miss Barnes shifted to the M-G-M lot as a contract player in "I Live My Life," with Joan Crawford, "Reckless," with Jean Harlow, and "Man of the People."

She also had a role in "A Star Is Born" produced by Selznick International and returned to the Metro lot, just before leaving for the Mary Young theater, to be featured in the "Hollywood Extra" series soon to be released.

Leaves for Europe To Honor War Dead

New York, July 22 (INS)—Headed by Harry W. Colmery of Topeka, Kan., national commander of the American Legion, a party of Americans was en route to Europe on the Berengaria today on a mission to honor the World War dead.

They will participate in dedication next month of seven large war monuments in France, Belgium and England.

Airport Increases Passenger Service

A 54 per cent increase in passenger service at the Boston airport was reported today by Chairman William P. Long of the Park Commission.

In a document submitted to Mayor Mansfield, Long said that the first half of the year as compared with last year showed that 60,000 passengers had landed at the airport.

ELDER TRIAL OPENS; 'SURPRISES' RUMORED

Greenfield, July 22—With several surprise witnesses rumored in readiness for both sides, Thomas E. Elder, former dean of Mt. Hermon School for Boys, went to trial this afternoon for the alleged attempted murdr of E. Allan Norton, ex-cashier at the school.

The courthouse was thronged by spectators seeking entrance to the trial.

Delay in starting the Elder trial was occasiond by the necessity for clearing a previous case, one of larceny, off the docket.

This case was given to the jury shortly before noon and the Elder case was called following a recess.

WITNESSES GATHER

During the morning, however, witnesses had been gathering, with Mrs. Edith Waymouth, neighbor of Norton and a Greenfield bank clerk, the first state witness to arrive. She was natty in a white linen suit.

Identity of the rumored surprise witnesses was being closely guarded, however, both by District Attorney David H. Keedy and Defense Counsel Charles R. Fairhurst.

Norton will be the state's chief witness against his 57-year-old former colleague. It was his charges, placed before the Grand Jury last week, that led to Elder's indictment. Prosecution will allege that on the night in question Elder approached Norton in the driveway of the latter's home, drew a shotgun from under his coat and threatened the ex-cashier.

ELDER TO TESTIFY

In addition to presenting Norton, the state will introduce at least a dozen other witnesses, it was disclosed tonight, including at least one who did not appear before the Grand Jury.

Elder will testify in his own defense and assert he was asleep in a Keene, N. H. hotel, 40 miles from this town, at the hour he is charged with committing the crime, his counsel stated.

Fugitive Slain In Gun Battle

Nairn, Ont., July 22 (INS)—A posse of sixteen heavily armed provincial police today trapped two gunmen wanted for murder, and in a running pistol battle killed Victor Gray, alias Szymonski, and seriously wounded Tom Ponarmarenklo.

The exchange of shots climaxed one of the greatest manhunts in the history of Ontario's northland. Gray and Ponarmarenklo were wanted for slaying Sergeant Fred Davidson in Sudbury.

William Powell Much Improved

Hollywood, July 22 (US)—William Powell, film star who was forced to leave his studio work nearly a week ago for a complete rest, was reported much improved today and able to resume acting next Monday.

The actor, suffering effects of exhaustion due to the long strain incident to the death of Jean Harlow and subsequent injury to his mother, was said by his physician to have gained strength rapidly.

Last of Escaped Convicts Nabbed

Monticello, Ark., July 22 (AP)—State Trooper O. V. Whitted captured without a shot here Harry Roberts, 34, last of three escaped Texas convicts who fought a deadly gun battle with a pursuing posse near Monticello.

Roberts fled through woods 12 miles east of Monticello when state police killed W. H. Dybee, 26, in a burst of gun play and captured James Rice, 30.

Hunt Trolley Passenger On New R. I. Death Clue

Hope avenue and Duncan avenue.

Meanwhile, Rhode Island state police had been enlisted to check sporting goods stores and gunsmith shops in cities outside Providence in the attempt to find any person or persons who bought or used the .45 calibre bullets missing from the box found in Duncan avenue.

Within the city, both detectives and patrolmen are making a similar check.

Discovery of the box of cartridges, easily the most important development in the murder probe thus far and the reason why the motorman's story today was regarded so seriously, was reported exclusively in the Boston Evening American yesterday.

Deputy Superintendent of Police James J. Cusick was in conference with Attorney-General John P. Hartigan, but the import of the conference was kept secret by both.

Medical Examiner John Picozzi had filed a formal report of the Webster autopsy in the attorney-general's office only a few minutes before.

One of the strangest phases of the story told by Motorman Mills was that the lone passenger, who boarded his car at 1:47 a. m. Friday, rode only six blocks, got off and walked rapidly back in almost the same direction from which he had come.

Police pointed out that the man had apparently gone in a straight line from the Webster house in Emeline street. Taking Hillside street back, as he did, he would have returned to point very close to the Webster home.

Two strange circumstances in the man's behavior had caught Mills' attention that fatal morning, the motorman said. He explained:

"This man paid his fare with his left hand. He kept his right hand buried in his jacket pocket. He might have been holding a gun. I don't know. I didn't think of it then, but I have since.

"Another thing was that he seemed to be out of breath, although he was standing waiting when I came along with my car. He got on nearly opposite the armory, a short distance from Duncan avenue.

"He didn't say anything—not even 'good morning'—and most people do that early. He sat near the door and his right hand was still in his pocket. He kept looking out the window, but it was so dark, except for street lights, I don't know what he could have seen.

HE HASTENED BACK

"When we got to the city line he jumped up and got off. He didn't hesitate. He turned up a side street and walked fast. He was going back in practically the same direction from which he must have come in the first place. He kept going fast, too, as far as I could see him."

Mills described his passenger as of very ruddy complexion, about five feet eight inches tall and weighing about 150 or 160 pounds. He said he wore a "good" suit, blue with a faint pencil stripe, black shoes and straw hat.

"He looked like a man who was well-off," the motorman added, "and he certainly acted queer when I come to think about it, after I heard of the murder."

With Mills' story fitting in so closely with the finding of the box of .45-caliber pistol bullets—investigators were convinced today that they had substantiation for a theory born in the beginning of the probe and never completely discarded.

This theory is that a neighbor of the doctor may have murdered him.

POLICE TRACE BULLETS

The motorman's passenger could and probably did, walk up hilly Duncan avenue to reach the car stop in North Main street, detectives believe.

And it was under the front porch of the Hanly home at 15 Duncan avenue that the find was made of the box of cartridges identical with the type used in the slaying of the society obstetrician.

One more link between the motorman's story and the box of cartridges was the official report from a man named Arno French who lives at 48 Mt. Hope avenue, only a few hundreds yards from Dr. Webster's house and in a direct line from that house to Hanly's to the trolley car stop.

"I haven't been well," French told detectives. "I'm awake a lot at night and I know that around one or two o'clock Friday morning I heard someone running through my yard. It annoyed me, but I didn't get up because the sound of footsteps was gone so quickly."

Police believe that the man "out of breath," as Motorman Mills described him, probably would have to run most of the way to North Main street if he stopped to cache the box of cartridges under the Hanly porch. He could then have been "waiting leisurely" at the car stop.

Cusick would not discuss the search launched for a Massachusetts national guardsman—also disclosed exclusively yesterday in the Boston Evening American—but it is known that the search so far has been unsuccessful.

MAN VANISHED SATURDAY

Massachusetts state police have been enlisted in this search. The man wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying is still missing from his home in a community on the Massachusetts-Rhode Island state line.

He was seen in Providence on the day that Dr. Webster met his death. He has not been seen by relatives or friends in his home city since Saturday, detectives were told.

Deputy Cusick was perfectly willing to talk about the reports of a man having shown Dr. Webster a pistol at a gay party two weeks ago and having threatened to use the gun "on the man playing around" with his wife. The story of this alleged report was printed by several papers, not the American.

"That is an utterly fantastic yarn," said Cusick. "Somebody dreamed it. Do you think that if we knew anything about a man with a .44 calibre automatic threatening the doctor, even in an indirect way, we would let it go at that?

"We would have had this man under lock and key immediately. We haven't got any such man because there never was any such report made to police."

From another official source the Boston Evening American learned that the guardsman hunt is being taken very seriously, but that officially the investigators want to "play it down" in the hope that the man will make an appearance in some spot where he may be taken into custody and questioned.

Asked about the latest evidence that a neighbor of the doctor is now an object of interest would fit into the picture of the hunt for a Bay State man, this spokesman said:

"You guess. We can't tell everything. If the men we're looking for know exactly why we want them, they'll have all the better reason to elude us. If we catch up with them, they'll have stories concocted with all the answers to the questions we want to put to them. You can see that."

VAN AMBURGH AIDS HUNT

The cartridges found by 12-year-old John Hanly, Jr., at his home in Duncan avenue were sent to Boston today to be examined microscopically by Capt. Charles Van Amburgh of the Massachusetts state police, one of the most-famed ballistics experts in the country.

With these cartridges were the three slugs fired from the pistol of Dr. Webster's slayer.

Capt. Van Amburgh is testing all these exhibits in his laboratory to determine beyond a doubt whether the murder bullets came from this particular box of cartridges.

Authorities are convinced that they did, because both sets of bullets are of an uncommon "metal-piercing type," with a brass and copper jacket on the lead projectile.

The captain's tests aimed at minute machine marking in the manufacture of the bullets. Under a microscope a faint hair-line twist is as good as a sign-post to an expert.

REOPEN CRATER PROBE ON WIFE'S CHARGES

New York, July 22 (AP)—Revival of the almost legendary mystery—the disappearance seven years ago of Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater—brought from District Attorney William C. Dodge today an announcement he would be "glad to make a thorough investigation" of charges that the justice was slain by political enemies.

Dodge said he was willing to go over the entire case with the missing jurist's wife, Mrs. Stella M. Crater. Yesterday Mrs. Crater was quoted in a newspaper interview as charging her husband possibly was murdered in connection with his political career and that police were lax in their original investigation. Dodge declared, however, the earlier investigation had been competent.

The police department already has re-opened its own investigation into what happened to Justice Crater after he got into a taxicab in Times Square on the night of August 6, 1930.

The inquiry was launched after the New York World-Telegram quoted the missing jurist's wife, Mrs. Stella M. Crater, as charging her husband was "murdered" in connection with "his political career" and that New York police were "inefficient" in their original investigation.

WIFE DENIES STORY

Mrs. Crater, located at her summer home near Belgrade Lakes, Me., denied last night she had "mentioned murder" and that she had criticized the police, but the new investigation was on.

Her attorney, Ralph O. L. Fay, in New York said his theory was that the justice had taken his own life, probably after a mental breakdown.

Despite conflicting theories and unless something tangible is produced beforehand, Attorney Fay next month said he will ask Judge Crater be declared legally dead, and apply for $20,000 life insurance the judge carried for his wife.

Mrs. Crater said that when her husband left their summer home at Belgrade Lakes on August 3, 1930, he was angry and determined to fight Tammany politicians who were opposing his renomination as a candidate to succeed himself on the bench, the World-Telegram quoted her in a second copyrighted interview today.

He had come to Maine on Saturday, August 2, she said, to spend the rest of the month with her, but after several telephone conversations Saturday night and Sunday morning decided to return to the city. He told her political business was taking him away, but she didn't question him about details, Mrs. Crater said.

After her husband's disappearance, she said, she learned that Tammany leaders had decided not to give him the nomination.

MIGHT HAVE FOUGHT

"When he came down to the city that week-end, I wouldn't be surprised if he hadn't insisted on that nomination," the paper quoted her. "He would have been frightfully hurt had it been refused. And when he was hurt he would have fought.

"All of this may not have had anthing to do with his 'going away,' but the circumstances lead to fearsome theories. They make me think that some sinister influence connected with politics caused him to disappear.

MOTIVES FOR "KILLING"

"He may have been killed because someone thought he knew too much and would tell what he knew if the nomination was refused him. He may have been killed for some other reason. I don't know. I am as puzzled as the police and his Tammany friends say they are.

"The way Joe's political friends acted after his disappearance made me suspect a political angle immediately, but I have waited seven years before talking about it."

DEFENSE OPENS IN FORD CLASH

Detroit, July 22 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company, overruled in its move to obtain dismissal of a National Labor Relations Board complaint charging unfair labor practices, started its attempt to disprove the allegations today.

Its first witness before the Labor Board trial examiner hearing the charges was Arthur Ogle, Detroit reporter, who testified he was with Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, from 12:30 p. m. until 3 o'clock on May 26, the day United Automobile Workers organizers were beaten and chased from gates of Ford's Dearborn plant.

The disturbance at the huge River Rouge plant, which followed attempts by union members to distribute handbills, occured during the hours Ogle testified he was with Bennett.

SCRAP EXPORT PROBE ASKED

Washington, July 22 (AP)—Senators Bridges (R.) of New Hampshire and Derby (D.) of Tennessee asked for a congressional investigation today to determine how foreign nations are using steel and iron scrap exported from the United States.

Bridges said the investigation would provide information on whether an embargo would keep the domestic supply of scrap intact and keep prices within a fair range for American iron and steel producers.

"American users of scrap, collectors of scrap, and army and navy experts," Bridges said, "should all be given a chance to be heard before Congress considers an iron and steel scrap embargo."

A bill proposing an embargo is pending before the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Workers Upheld By Court Collect

Pittsburgh, July 22 (AP)—Today was pay day for 10 workers who were ordered reinstated by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation in the Supreme Court's spring decision upholding the Wagner labor act.

Regional Labor Board Director Charles T. Douds said the men, who had charged they were dismissed for union activities, would receive from $193 to $1750 in back pay.

ONCE JUROR, HE CONFESSES HOLDUP

Taken from the ranks of the new grand jury two weeks ago, George Bowen, 28, Chelsea night club "bouncer," known to the boxing ring as Joe Cabana, confessed at police headquarters today, detectives said, to complicity in a $7200 Pennsylvania holdup.

Bowen said, Detectives William Bonner and Joseph McGovern declared, that he took part in the robbery at the Lucius Beebe Tannery, Bristol, Pa., last April 9.

Arraigned before Judge F. Delano Putnam in municipal court, as a fugitive from justice, Bowen waived extradition and the charge was filed. He was turned over to Pennsylvania authorities.

To detectives he is said to have revealed that he went to Pennsylvania with Jervis Jennings, now held in the robbery and shooting of Patrolman Thomas G. Supple in Dorchester.

Bowen, according to police, said he was not certain but he believed the Pennsylvania holdup to have netted about $6300. He named Leo Cass, alias Casarjian, now held in Bristol, Pa., as an acessory before the fact, as a man who received $100 of the money—passed to him in a Chelsea night club.

"I was an awful boob and a sucker," he said, according to the detectives. "I'd have been better off if they rapped me behind the ear a long while ago.

'Tough Tom' A Problem To Police

Grim Youngster, 9, Is 'Truthful Tom' Now

New York, July 22 (AP)—A loaded pistol in one hand and a flashlight in the other, a grim-faced youngster walked into the 51st street police station today and announced himself as "Tough Tommy Ryan."

"You remember me," he said to the astonished desk lieutenant. "I'm Tough Tommy Ryan. I clipped by mother for $10."

The police did remember Tommy. It was only six weeks ago that they gave him a "lie detector" test, using an alarm clock and a piece of string. Tommy confessed a $10 bill he proferred for a taxi ride was taken from his mother.

This time, however, Tommy came voluntarily to police to report "I found these, please," handing the pistol and flashlight to the lieutenant. He explained he found them under an automobile on Third avenue, a fact which police later verified.

"Tought Tommy," is "Truthful Tommy" now. He's nine years old.

Denies Milton Break

Richard J. McInerney, Watertown, pleaded not guilty in Quincy court today to breaking and entering the home of Arthur Laird, Essex road, Milton, and was held in $1000 for the grand jury. Police said they found McInerney hiding under a bed in the Laird home.

NEW HAVEN ASKS RIGHT TO DROP 2 BOAT LINES

New Haven, Conn., July 22 (AP)—Trustees of the New Haven Railroad asked the U. S. District Court here today for permission to abandon operation of the Fall River Line used for romantic cruises by generations of New England bridal couples.

The [illegible]-year-old line has been beset recently by strikes, and suspended service July 12.

The New Haven line, operating freighters between this city and New York, was included in the trustees' petition for abandonment.

The petition asserts that the trustees had hoped to continue operation of the Fall River Line during the current summer season, but that a loss was shown for the first six months of the year.

"The petition further asserts that "interruption to service which has occurred has led your petitioners to the conclusion that the Fall River Line and the New Haven Line cannot be operated at a profit and that their operation should be discontinued."

The court was also asked to authorize the sale of the steamboats Commonwealth, Priscilla, Providence, Plymouth, Chester W. Chapin, City of Lowell, Pequannock, New Haven and Mohawk.

Martha Raye Welcomed By Cheering Bostonians

STAR LIKES HER FARE IN BOSTON

Star Hostess to Three Hikers From N. Y.

Madcap Martha Raye, merry movie meteor whose swift rise is one of the newest Hollywood success stories, arrived in Boston today for a week of personal appearances—and was royally welcomed.

She was so royally welcomed, in fact, that when she finally sat down to breakfast with her husband, Hamilton Westmore, Hollywood makeup artist, she had acquired three youthful guests who had hitch-hiked here from New York to see her again.

ACCLAIMED BY CROWD

Martha's left hand index finger and the middle finger of her right hand were bandaged when she stepped off the train in the South Station to be welcomed by a large crowd.

So quickly was she taken up that there was no time then to ask her about the bandaged fingers.

Finally extracted from this throng of greeters, the movie comedienne was taken to the Ritz Carlton.

There she and her husband learned that since 4 a. m. a youthful trio had been sitting on a curbstone outside, following their hitch-hike arrival from Manhattan—a trip made, they declared, because they wanted to see Martha's act here, after seeing it in New York.

THREE HER GUESTS

The three—Miss Patty Lees, 19, of Brooklyn; Miss Terry Nickolas, 18, of Newark, N. J., and Johnny Levin, 21, of Pelham, took their curbstone seats when they arrived just before dawn. They were invited by Martha to be her guests at the hotel when she learned of their presence.

Meanwhile, long before the Metropolitan Theater box office was opened for the first show, a long line, four and five persons across, stretched from the theater entrance, down Tremont street and around the corner half the length of Dore street.

A royal welcome and a breakfast were the first items on the program of Martha Raye, movie star, as she came to Boston this morning. Kid McCoy Plans Ninth Marriage

Detroit, July 22 (AP)—Norman Selby, better known as Kid McCoy, will run his string of marriages to nine, probably sometime in August. His engagement to Mrs. Sue Cobb Cowley, divorced wife of a Detroit architect, was announced at a dinner last night. The former boxer is now 63 years old.

Three of McCoy's marriages were to the same woman, Julia Woodruff.

Financier Killed In Cleaning Rifle

Summit, N. J., July 22 (AP)—Stuart C. Adams, 54, financial adviser to a New York brokerage firm and cousin of James Truslow Adams, historical writer, died today shortly after he was wounded in the head by a .32 calibre rifle bullet.

Police said the gun accidentally discharged while he was cleaning it in the home of Mrs. James C. Thomas, whom he was engaged to marry next month.

Spectroscope Aids Improving Armor On U. S. Warships

Tougher and more shell-resistant metals for Uncle Sam's warships are being made possible through the use of the magic eye of the spectroscope, which acts like a wand in detecting flaws in metals, scientists at M. I. T. were told today.

Investigations into some of the rarer metals, among them tungsten, have revealed new and valuable properties of the element which lends ruggedness to gun metal and armor plate. The spectrum or "rainbow" of this metal, when burned was described by Professor Julian Mack of the University of Wisconsin.

How silver poisoning, which causes the skin to turn to a greyish color, and which in most cases can only be proven after death, now yields its secret to the eye of the spectroscope.

Thin slices of skin are put in the "electric chair," or electrodes of the instrument, a spark is flashed across the gap, and the hues of the resultant flame provide the clue. This was described by Dr. L. E. Gaul of New York.

TEACHER THREATENS SUITS OVER OUSTER

Denied a re-hearing by the Saugus school committee, pretty Isabelle Hallin, ousted Saugus school teacher and dramatic coach, today planned to file suits against certain members of the committee.

Attorney Daniel Canning, her counsel, announced today that suits would be filed immediately because "the members of the committee think they are bigger than the people who elected them to office."

Meanwhile, the teacher's defense committee reported that one of its members had received threatening telephone calls.

While refusing to reveal the name of the person receiving the calls, the committee made known that all the calls were from a woman who threatened to bring "political defeat" to the member in question if he persisted in trying to get the 26-year-old teacher reinstated.

Canning also stated that 107 signatures had been affixed to a petition which calls for a limited town meeting at which the resignations of three members of the school committee will be asked.

Miss Hallin, who is temporarily working as a stenographer in her father's electric shop in Lynn, again emphatically stated she would carry the fight to the finish."

She said:

"I am bitterly disappointed in view of the fact that residents of the town came out so strongly in my behalf. I expected the committee to reconsider its action and reinstate me.

"I am still determined to clear up my name."

LUCKY IN PLUNGE

Boston Evening American Photo

The fall of a sleep-walking boy, Zigmund Miluez, of 202 Chambers street, West End, resulted in the boy being taken to Haymarket Relief hospital. Zigmund is photographed in the hospital, where doctors were amazed to discover his injuries are not serious, despite the 25-foot drop from his bedroom window.

One Transfusion Fails to Improve 'Plunge Girl'

Fighting valiantly to cheat the death she once sought, Miss Alice E. Gallo, 18, who plunged 45 feet from a fire escape of her North End home with her hands bound, following an alleged beating, was still reported in very poor condition at City Hospital today.

Physicians at the hospital, who feel death is almost certain, attempted to stave it off yesterday by a blood transfusion. Despite this, they still have little hope for recovery.

Her mother, Mrs. Antoinette Gallo, who is accused of beating her and tieing her up before the plunge, tearfully offered her blood. Her blood, however, was not the same type.

The donor was Anthony Farrantino, a relative of the injured girl. While the blood was being drawn from his veins, the girl's mother wept in an adjoining corridor.

According to police, Alice threw herself from the third floor of her North Margin street home, following a beating administered by her mother and sister, Philomena. She is suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Sleepwalking Boy Injured in Fall

Sigmund Miluez, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miluez, Chambers street, West End, is on the danger list in Haymarket Relief Hospital with a possible fractured skull, sustained when he fell 20 feet from his bedroom window while walking in his sleep early today.

The noise of his body striking the ground was heard by the child's sister, Sophie, and her friend, Rose Russo, Leverett street, who were in the kitchen of the house.

Rushed by police to the hospital, Sigmund was treated for fractured left hand and lacerated forehead.

Mrs. Field No Better

Beverly, July 22—The condition of Mrs. Delia Spencer Caton Field, 84, widow of Marshall Field, who is ill at her summer home here, was described today as unchanged. Mrs. Field is the widow of the Chicago merchant, reputedly worth $100,000,000.

HOUSE FAVORS STUDY OF LOW U. S. COURTS

Washington, July 22 (INS)—The House judiciary committee has authorized a study of judicial reform in the United States circuit and district courts, it was disclosed today by Chairman Sumners (D.).

The House, Sumners said, has sent four judicial reform measures to the Senate this season. One, authorizing retirement of justices of the Supreme Court at 70, became law. Justice Van Devanter retired under this law.

The House also has sent to the Senate, where it awaits action, a bill permitting the attorney-general to intervene in private litigation where a constitutional question is involved, and to take direct appeals to the Supreme Court.

Other bills sent to the Senate require federal district judges to conform to laws of the states in commenting on evidence in a trial, and providing a new method of removing federal district judges on trial for misbehavior.

He proposed the committee itself request the Senate to recommit the bill for revision by its opponents. Previously he had informed the opposition they could "write their own ticket" on judicial legislation and that the administration would accept it.

When Burke made his motion to approve the Garner plan, it carried overwhelmingly but there were two senators who voted against it. Their colleagues refused to identify the dissenters.

SOME WANT BILL KILLED

Wheeler, backed by Senators Van Nuys (D.), Indiana and O'Mahoney (D.), Wyoming, urged the committee to approve Garner's peace plan. Some of the opposition members of the committee, however, demanded the President's bill be killed outright in the Senate, before any step is taken to enact compromise legislation. They were overruled though, by a majority of the opposition.

Burke then made the motion. A part of it directed Senator Logan (D.), Kentucky, staunch supporter of the PPresident's bill, to make the motion in the Senate for recommitment of the bill. Logan agreed to this. Its strategy was to make it appear the administration itself was ordering the recommital voluntarily.

8-Point Court Bill Roosevelt Must Accept

Washington, July 22 (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D.) of Wyoming, a leading opponent of the original court bill, today announced the Senate judiciary committee and administration chieftains had agreed on an eight-point program of "judicial reform."

Within 10 days the program will be hammered into legislation which will take the place of the President's bill.

The new measure will be attached as a "rider" to a House bill calling for minor judiciary re-

1 calling for minor judiciary forms, which already is before the committee. This would lessen the possibility of revisions in the House.

EIGHT-POINT PROGRAM

The eight-point program as outlined by O'Mahoney would provide:

1—No change in the Supreme Court.

2—No proctor to assign extra judges to relieve congestion in lower courts.

3—No "roving judges," who could be assigned wherever the proctor wished.

4—Direct appeal to the Supreme Court from lower Federal courts, when matters of constitutionality are involved.

5—Intervention by the attorney general in any lower court case involving a constitutional question.

6—Reassignment of lower court judges wherever they may be needed by the senior circuit judge of each circuit.

7—Appointment of new judges on a basis of need, not of age.

8—Requirements that questions of constitutionality arising in lower courts can be settled only by a threejudge tribunal, including one circuit judge.

"There is no serious divergence of opinion," O'Mahoney declared. "We were all satisfied that everything was being negotiated in good faith.

"I have no doubt that we can get together with the administration on a bill satisfactory to everyone. As a matter of fact, a great deal of work already has been done, and I should not be surprised if it is finished by Monday or Tuesday."

He added that the eight-point program was worked out with the full participation and approval of the vice president, majority Lead- (D.), Arizona, of the judiciary committee.

Huge 'Job March' On Capital, Plan

Washington, July 22 (INS)—Protesting against recent WPA dismissals and a further lay-off slated for October, the Workers Alliance of America today announced plans for a "national job march" on Washington.

The organization, through David Lasser, national president, said the "largest gathering of unemployed in recent years" will converge on the nation's capital August 23.

SENATOR BARKLEY SENATOR HARRISON

Elected majority leader of the Senate yesterday, Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, is being congratulated by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who opposed him for the vacancy created by the death of Senator Robinson. As this photo was snapped, Harrison declared: "Alben, I congratulate you. We've got to fight together now as we have in the past."

SEATTLE GUILD MEN BALK ON CIO DUES

Seattle, July 22 (AP)—Forty editorial employes of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, all members of the American Newspaper Guild, announced today they had refused to pay dues and assessments to the guild because of its present policies.

The employes said in a petition they did not "subscribe to 'taxation without representation' and most emphatically will not contribute dues and assessments to carry on a program in the shaping of which they have been denied a voice and of which they most heartily disapprove."

The petition was sent to the guild's international executive board and to Heywood Broun, president.

"In the Guild Reporter (guild news organ) of July 15 the Seattle chapter, American Newspaper Guild, is listed as one which opposed a referendum on the action of the St. Louis convention," the petition said.

(The guild's national convention voted to bolt the American Federation of Labor and join John Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.)

"The Seattle chapter did not oppose such a referendum. The Seattle chapter never had a chance to vote on the question of a referendum.

"At a hand picked meeting, attended by persons not even members of the Guild, the Seattle chapter executives hurriedly jammed through a motion opposing a referendum."

Fred Niendorff, financial writer and one of the circulars of the petition, said 65 editorial workers of the Hearst-owned morning daily were Guild members.

Detroit, July 22 (INS)—The National Editorial Association today was united with twelve other American publishers' associations in a "solid battle line" to fight the movement to establish editorial room "closed shops."

The 450 delegates to the 52nd annual convention unanimously passed the resolution to accept the American Newspaper Publishers Association invitation to join in the fight against closed shops.

Outgoing President Clayton T. Rand, Gulfport, Miss., declared:

"Our union with the newspaper committee means that editors of the country present a solid battle line against the infringement which is being made on the press."

COURT DEFEAT FIRST CHECK ON ROOSEVELT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, July 22 (INS)—President Roosevelt has lost his first major conflict with Congress.

A few of his vetoes have been over-ridden before by a politically-conscious Congress, notably in the soldiers bonus and the government pay-cut cases, but in the epic struggle over increasing the membership of the Supreme Court, the President may be said to have suffered the first real check on his leadership.

Until it is seen what type of a judiciary bill eventually is brought out by the opposition the full extent of Mr. Roosevelt's defeat cannot be measured, but it was conceded by all today that it is a defeat of major calibre.

Mr. Roosevelt never "went down the line" for any legislation as he did for the court bill. From the time he submitted it to a startled Congress last February until this week he never stopped battling for it.

COURT CONSCIOUS

Twice, under dramatic circumstances, he took his case to the country over the radio. The first occasion was at the Democratic victory dinner in March, when he employed the phrase "now, now, now" as the time for judicial reform.

A week later he returned to the radio with a defense of his plan and a plea for its immediate enactment.

But although his original plan is dead, Mr. Roosevelt has the satisfaction today of achieving by indirection what he sought to accomplish by frontal assault.

He has made the country Supreme Court conscious; he has succeeded in reversing the trend of Supreme Court decisions against social and economic legislation, and he now has at his disposal one vacancy which can be filled by "a liberal."

Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt has now a new Senate leader who is wholeheartedly a New Dealer, which the late Senator Joe Robinson never was.

BARKLEY IN 1940?

Senator Robinson, it is true, went along with the White House for reasons of party loyalty, but it was no secret that with much of the New Deal philosophy the Arkansan had little personal sympathy or attachment.

With Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky in the saddle it will be different. Square-shouldered, hard-hitting in debate, and fast on his parliamentary feet, the Kentuckian should prove an ideal leader from Mr. Roosevelt's standpoint.

A good many political observers believe Barkley may be destined for still further party honors. Three years hence the Democrats, presumably, will be confronted with the job of choosing a candidate for the presidency. None of Mr. Roosevelt's intimates believe he will be a candidate for a third term.

If the philosophy of the New Deal is to continue dominant in the Democratic party—and it is almost inconceivable to think otherwise—the nominee in 1940 will be a sincere New Dealer. To that extent the new Senate leader fills the bill.

NEW CONGRESS BATTLE

Washington, July 22 (AP)—A group of the Senate's most ardent champions of the administration organized a campaign today for completion of the President's legislative program at this session of Congress.

Senator Bone (D.) of Washington said the members would try to combat a growing sentiment to adjourn immediately after settlement of the court reorganization controversy.

The group will insist that Congress stay in session, he said, until it passes at least three major measures—the housing, wage-hour, and farm bills.

"Since the opponents of the President's court program have been largely responsible for prolonging the session far into the summer," Bone said, "they can hardly use that delay as an excuse for adjourning while much important work is still unfinished."

Senator McNary (R.) of Oregon the minority leader, said, however, he would oppose action on any major legislation.

"The time has come to quit and go home," McNary said.

Senator Pope (D.) of Idaho, who introduced the farm bill, declared his opposition to "a stampede adjournment."

He said he believed the housing and wage-hour proposals could be enacted with little debate, but suggested the farm bill might be held over until 1938.

Rifle Shot Kills Greenfield Man

Greenfield, July 22—Found shot to death in a third floor room of a Wilson avenue rooming-house today, Frank R. Greer, 68, is believed by police to have been murdered.

Greer, unemployed, was shot with a .22 calibre rifle. A man, a roomer at the same house owned by Greer's sister-in-law, is being sought by police for questioning.

Financing O. K.'d

Approval was voted yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission of the Springfield Gas Light Company issues of notes for $300,000 payable in 10 years at an interest rate of 3½ per cent.

Warns of Higher Clothing Prices

New York, July 22 (AP)—Higher coat and suit prices appeared in prospect today as the associate council of the vendors' relations committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association asked retail buyers to "give due cognizance" to "justifiable" increases.

In a letter mailed to stores throughout the country the council expressed the opinion "the coat and suit manufacturer at the present time faces increased labor costs which he may not be able to absorb currently."

MARY HAPGOOD AND 5 GUILTY

Worcester, July 22—Six persons, including Mary Donovan Hapgood, wife of Powers Hapgood, New England secretary of the CIO, were found guilty of disturbing the peace by Judge Albert T. Wall, in district court today.

The cases were all placed on file.

Arraignment of the defendants was the aftermath of a disturbance at the plant of the Reed-Prince Manufacturing Company last Friday. The plant reopened on that day following a six weeks' strike.

Others arraigned included Roy H. Stevens, Jr., 23, son of a Worcester district fire chief, Clifford Gallant, 36, Michael Sullivan, 30, Robert Butler, 23, and William G. Adam, 26.

Counsel for the defendants, following Judge Wall's finding, asked the court to fine his clients rather than place the cases on file, so they could appeal the findings.

The judge, however, refused to accede to the counsel's demands.

Roxbury Man Held On Pistol Charge

Clarence F. Ford, 23, of Fort avenue, Roxbury, was held for the grand jury today in $5000 following his plea of not guilty, when arraigned in municipal court on charges of carrying a dangerous weapon.

Police testified Ford was arrested following a raid in a South End poolroom. Police said they found a .32 caliber revolver on Ford's person.

Gillis' Tax Rate $43.20

Newburyport, July 22—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis today announced a $43.20 tax rate for 1937. The rate, according to the mayor, is $2.20 less than in 1936.

SENATE GROUP BLAMES POLICE IN KILLINGS

Washington, July 22 (INS)—Death of ten strikers killed in Memorial Day riots at the Republic Steel Corporation Chicago plant were "clearly avoidable," the Senate Civil Liberties committee held today, in its report upon the three day investigation of the riots conducted some time ago.

Chicago police were held "accountable" for the deaths in the report filed in the Senate today by the committee.

The committee, headed by Senator LaFollette (R.) of Wisconsin, summed up its three-day investigation of the pitched battle with a general denunciation of the deportment of the police during the riot.

The report declared also that the "first shots were fired by the police;" that the police failed to provide adequate medical treatment for the wounded, and that they were "unnecessarily brutal" in their treatment of the 2000 marchers, which included women and children.

The report was in direct contradiction to the recent report of a coroner's jury in Chicago which termed the action of the police "justifiable homicide."

LaFOLLETTE'S WARNING

LaFollette warned that action of the police officers and city officials in approving the action of the police will encourage further bloody clashes in strike-bound areas. The report said:

"We conclude that the consequences of the Memorial Day encounter were clearly avoidable by the police. The action of the responsible authorities in setting the seal of their approval upon the conduct of the police not only fails to place responsibility where responsibility properly belongs but will invite the repetition of similar incidents in the future."

The committee held that "all evidence" at the hearing denies the contention of Chicago Police Commissioner James P. Allman and other police officers, that the patrolmen were "forced" to fire their pistols in self-defense.

The report said:

"We think it is clear from all the evidence that nothing was said by the speakers at the meeting which could be even remotely construed as an incitement to assault the police or to capture the plant.

"From all of the evidence, we conclude that although a number of the marchers carried sticks, clubs, or other similar weapons, the arming of the crowd was not so general that it can be attributed to any preconceived design to assault the police."

FIRING UNPROVOKED

Taking the testimony of James P. Mooney, and Ralph Beck, a Chicago reporter, concerning the events which led up to the firing of the first shots, the committee said:

"If we accept these two statements, as they suppliment each other, the one from the commanding police officer, the other from an impartial observer, we reach the conclusion that the first shots came from the police; that these were unprovoked, except perhaps by a tree branch thrown by the strikers, and that the second volley of police shots was simultaneous with the missiles thrown by the strikers.

Nantasket Movie Fire Loss $1000

Fire today destroyed the backstage drops of the Apollo theater, cinema retreat of the Nantasket Colony.

Thousands of summer residents attracted by the blaze were held in check by Metropolitan police.

Matinee and night performances will be called off temporarily, the management announced, as a result of the fire. Damage was estimated at $1000.

Shoe Strike Shuts Marlboro Factory

Marlboro, July 22 (AP)—A strike today closed the Curtis Shoe Co. plant, which employed 300 workers. The strike was called by the United Shoe Workers of America, a CIO affiliate, because ofa disagreement over the price schedule.

John A. Curtis, president, in a statement, said the schedule had been ratified by a "pratically unanimous" vote of his employes. He asserted his offer to take questions at issue to the state board had been refused.

Braintree Gasoline Sto'age Wins O.K.

State Fire Marshal Stephen C. Garrity today upheld the action of the Braintree board of selectmen in granting a license to Matthew P. Scullin for the storing of 855,000 gallons of petroleum products at 511-525 Quincy street, East Braintree.

Garrity's action followed a public hearing held July 6 when residents of the district appealed from the action of the selectmen. In his decision, Garrity stated there will be no hazard from fire or explosion from the tanks.

City to Borrow $1,300,000 For Debt

Authority for the city to borrow $1,300,000 against its tax titles to meet temporary loans was granted today by the State Emergency Finance Board.

At the same time, the state board announced authority to borrow $290,000 for ordinary maintenance and $150,000 for welfare purposes has been granted to Somerville. Waltham was authorized to borrow $50,000 for Works Progress Administration purposes.

Lynn Man May See Son Each Month; Ban on 2d Wife

Salem, July 22—Denying that he ever made a bartender out of his six-year-old son, Henry N. Berry, Jr., wealthy Lynn and New York insurance broker, won an agreement in Probate Court today allowing him to see the boy.

Berry and Mrs. Mary A. Berry were divorced last August 3 after a hearing in her suit, alleging intoxication and charging, at that time, the boy, Henry N. Berry, III, had been made to serve as a bartender by his father.

GETS BOY ONCE A MONTH

Under the tria agreement reached today, Berry is to be allowed to have the boy overnight at his own mother's Lynn home once a month, but if he allows his second wife to be in the presence of the youngster he shall be denied all right to see his son.

Berry, who remarried in New York last February 4, stated today in court that he did not know he was violating Massachusetts law by remarrying within two years of his wife's divorce decree.

Although he denied on the stand today that the second wife was behind the first wife's divorce action, the latter testified:

$70,000 FUND APPROVED

"Before I got the decree he was drinking. He was running around with this woman openly and causing me great humiliation. I never want my boy to see that other woman or ever be in any remote presence of her."

When handing down the divorce, Judge Harry R. Dow approved a $70,000 trust fund established by the husband for Mrs. Berry and the boy.

FOOD SHORTAGE HITS BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., July 22 (INS)—With 44 food warehouses and packing houses closed, Buffalo today felt the first pinch of food shortage as the strike of 2000 truck drivers and food handlers for union recognition and higher wages continued.

The strike was called by the Wholesale Delivery Men's Union and the Joint Council of Teamsters, but spread to packing and warehouse employes when Hugh Thompson, district CIO organizer, declared his organization would co-operate with AFL men.

More than 1500 trucks, ordinarily used to transport food, were idle as pickets moved to halt shipments of food from suburban areas into Buffalo. Meat, poultry, butter and egg supplies were confined to those already in stores.

Demands Four 'El' Trustees Be Ousted

A demand that four of the five Boston Elevated trustees be removed immediately because of increasing deficits was made today in a letter sent to Governor Hurley by former Representative Alexander Sullivan of East Boston.

Trustee Henry J. Smith was excepted from Sullivan's demand because he has been a trustee for only a few months, the letter stated.

McCarthy, Boxer, Fined $10 in Quincy

Jack McCarthy, Roxbury heavyweight, who is going to trade punches shortly with Al McCoy, New England champion, was fined $10 in Quincy court today on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

Judge Kenneth L. Johnson was told that McCarthy swung a stool and broke a sink in a North Weymouth diner on July 9 after an argument with the proprietor and a counterman.

Trip by Parsons Stirs Kidnap Hunt

Stony Brook, N. Y., July 22 (AP)—The absence of William H. Parsons from his home here today revived reports of developments in the disappearance of his wife, Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons, on June 9, but federal agents insisted Parsons was merely visiting relatives.

Salvail, Nashua Circus Man, Dies

Nashua, N. H., July 22 (AP)—Word was received here today of the death of Adolph Louis Salvail, 69, one of the oldest side show managers in the country.

Salvail, a native of Nashua, became ill while performing with a circus at Baldor, Quebec.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LINK DE CELLES TO MUTUAL FORMATION

The Eastern States Insurance Company was reconstructed into the now defunct Commonwealth Mutual Liability Insurance Company because Insurance Commissioner Francis M. J. DeCelles wanted a change of attorneys, two members of the special committee investigating the Commonwealth, were told in New York.

Ruby Pittsburg, once owner of a fleet of taxicabs in Boston, told Senator Edmund S. Oppenheimer and Representative John W. Coddaire, members of the legislative investigating committee, that he organized the Eastern States Insurance Company to handle compulsory motor vehicle insurance on that taxicab fleet.

SAYS DeCELLES "SORE"

The charter for that insurance company was issued under former Insurance Commissioner Morton L. Brown, Pittsburg said, but shortly afterward Commissioner Brown was ousted by former Governor Curley.

When DeCelles became commissioner, he closed the Eastern States company because he was "sore" on Professor Frank L. Simpson of Boston University, attorney for the company, Pittsburg charged.

The new Commonwealth Mutual Company was given a charter only after Pittsburg and Frank Cohen, New York financial backer, agreed to let George Ryan, neighbor of DeCelles in Belmont, organize the new company, the former taxi owner stated.

TELLS CONVERSATION

DeCelles was instrumental in having an article printed in a Boston newspaper, dealing with alleged efforts of "Dutch" Schultz to enter the insurance field in Boston, and linking Pittsburg's name with Schultz and other so-called racketeers, Pittsburg asserted.

He said he was called to Boston police station for questioning shortly afterward, and told he was wanted as a racketeer.

Meeting DeCelles shortly afterward on boat trip from New York to Boston, Pittsburg related a conversation in which he alleged the insurance commissioner said:

"You'll never get an insurance charter from me as long as Frank Simpson is your counsel. You can start a new concern, but you'll have to get rid of Simpson. I've got a man as good as Simpson as a lawyer. His name is Ryan, and he lives in my own town of Belmont."

Later, at a conference with Ryan, Pittsburg said the Belmont attorney asked: "Is Frank Cohen your backer?"

When Pittsburg said yes, according to his statement, Ryan then said:

"Well, DeCelles says that Cohen has a bad reputation—that he's a thief and a crook."

This conversation took place some time before the Commonwealth was organized, Pittsburg said.

Pinned Under 'El' Car, Boy Escapes

Tiny Frederick Rabin, two-and-one-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Rabin, Helen street, Dorchester, who narrowly escaped death last night when he was pinned under a Talbot avenue, Dorchester, street car, was reported as "good as new" today.

According to police, the tot ran directly in front of the car operated by Lawrence Moran, Dakota street, Dorchester.

Moran jammed on the brakes, but not until the child had fallen underneath.

A passenger, Thomas Lehan, Oakhurst street, Dorchester, crawled under the car and discovered the boy lying full length under the front trucks. He escaped with bruises.

Saves Life, Won't Lend Friend Money

Viareggio, Italy (INS)—By saving Gino Prato from drowning, Tito Biagini lost a friend. Prato, after having been fished out of the Tyhreanean Sea by Biagini immediately asked him for a 50 liras loan. Biagini refused and thus broke up a beautiful friendship.

TWO LAUGH-MAKERS

MARION DAVIES PATSY KELLY

Patsy Kelly, at right, as Sadie Rogers, is mystified by her girl friend's (Marion Davies) plans to disguise herself in order to obtain employment. A scene from the new Cosmopolitan Production, "Ever Since Eve," which is now pleasing throngs at both the Paramount and Fenway theaters.

Marion at Her Best In Newest Comedy

Marion Davies, who is invariably at her best in light, whimsical comedy, has a role particularly suitable in the Cosmopolitan production called "Ever Sinve Eve," which is current in Boston at the Paramount and Fenway theaters.

Always giving her fans an additional treat in the way of a popular and capable leading man, Marion this time shares honors with the likeable Robert Montgomery.

And to add to the general gayety of the piece, she is supported by such funmakers as Frank McHugh, Patsy Kelly, Louise Fazenda, Allen Jenkins, Marcia Ralston and Carol Hughes.

BIG SPECTACLE

"Ever Since Eve" has every element that goes toward making a tremendous Davies hit. It has a lively story, full of fun and romance, a big spectacle that includes songs and dances, and it gives the star several opportunities to display her taste in gorgeous gowns.

Miss Davies is a stenographer, as the story opens, who is harassed because of her good looks, by various employers. To get away from this she adopts a homely disguise of dark wig and dark, horn-rimmed glasses.

Bob Montgomery, it seems, is a novelist who, in spite of his successful books, is irresponsible. Just now he needs a secretary, and Marion is wished upon him by his hard-headed woman publisher, Louise Fazenda. He doesn't like her looks but has to take her.

Marion shares an apartment with Patsy Kelly, called Sadie Rogers, in the film. A legitimate errand takes Montgomery there one evening. Marion, out of disguise, opens the door. He fails to recognize her, but is entranced with her loveliness and takes her dancing, believing she is the roommate, Sadie.

ALL ELEMENTS

The dramatic mixups carry on from there — misunderstandings, suspense as to whether Bob can get his novel finished by the deadline set for it, the intrusion of bandits, a big fiesta in which the two realize they love each other, and finally, the revelation that the blonde beauty of Bob's social life and the drab secretary of his workaday life are one and the same. And, to be sure, everything turns out happily.

Miss Davies has never seen better. She romps through the comedy with an air of high glee, as though she enjoyed every minute she spent making it—as, indeed, the producers say she did. And Montgomery is an ideal leading man for her. This is not their first teaming. They made the highly sucessful "Blondie of the Follies" together several years ago.

Lloyd Bacon directed the picture, from a screen play by Lawrence Riley, Earl Baldwin and Lillie Hayward, based on an original story by Margaret Lee and Gene Baker.

MISS MERRICK HAYES' BRIDE

With more than 400 relatives and friends attending the nuptial mass, Miss Anastasia Merrick, daughter of Mrs. Robert Merrick and the late Dr. Merrick of Dorchester, was married in St. ePter's Church, Meeting House Hill, today to John J. Hayer, Jr., of Belmont.

The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis M. O'Brien, of Chicago, an unbie of the bride.

Miss Catherine J. Merrick, a sister, was bridesmaid, and Robert F. Hayes, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her brother Robert, of New York.

A wedding reception was held in the Hotel Vendome and the couple will honeymoon in Europe.

Eleanor Now Mum On Divorce Report

Cleveland, July 22 (AP)—Eleanor Holm Jarrett adopted a new theme song tonight, something called "I won't talk; don't ask me," as an encore to her announcement that she had "discussed" a divorce with Art Jarrett.

The 23-year-old backstroke swimming champion held a press conference and two reporters wanted to know if she had been in telephonic communication with her husband, who is singing at Dallas, Tex.

"I won't talk," said Mrs. Jarrett. "Good-bye."

But she had a cheerful word for Jarrett. Someone called him a crooner.

"He's not a crooner," she said. "He's a singer. He has great talent, Arthur has."

Mrs. Jarrett, star of a current Billy Rose revue at the Great Lakes Exposition, had disclosed earlier she had suggested to Jarrett that they "call it quits."

Jarrett responded he thought it would be "ungallant" of him to comment, and stood by that statement today.

U. S. Scouts Lose Pet

London, July 22 (AP) — Forty American Boy Scouts on their way to the international jamboree in the Netherlands are turning the British countryside upside down in a search for their mascot —a baby alligator two feet long. They lost the alligator while visiting with British scouts in Gloucestershire.

DEFICIT IN JULY $200,000,000

Washington, July 22 (INS)—The Treasury revealed today the federal deficit at the end of the first three weeks of the new fiscal year has approached close to the $200,000,000 mark.

Despite the economy drive ordered by President Roosevelt shortly after the new fiscal period started, July 1, government expenditures are higher than at this time a year ago.

During the first 19 days of this month, receipts from income taxes and other revenue sources totaled $88,400,000, an increase of more than $80,000,000 over the corresponding period in 1936.

Matched against this were outlays amounting to $455,687,000. This represented $215,924,000 spent for regular departmental costs, 130,000,000 for relief and $124,000,000 for government trust accounts.

Farm Bill Parley

Washington, July 22 (US)—Representatives of farm groups were invited today by Chairman Jones to meet with the House agricultural committee Tuesday to consider his new bill reviving the AAA and setting up an ever normal granary.

William H. Pierce, New Police Boat, Is Launched

With champagne still foaming on her bow, the new police boat, William H. Pierce, named for the late police superintendent, slid down the ways at Lawley's boatyard, Neponset, today, the first of three to take the water.

Miss Eleanor F. Pierce, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Pierce of 785 Washington street, Brookline, granddtughter of the late superintendent, christened the 38-footer.

Present, among others, were her father and mother; Inspector Harry Pierce and Deputy Sheriff Frank C. Pierce, sons of the man for whom the boat is named; Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon and Lieutenant Lawrence H. Dunn of harbor police.

The craft has a 265-horsepower motor, capable of pushing the police boat 25 miles an hour. Still to be launched are the new police boats Michael H. Crowley and William McShane.

'Broken Faith' Of British Cited By Jewry Here

In praise of the statement made to the Hearst newspapers last Sunday by David Lloyd George, former British war-time prime minister, Jewish leaders in Cambridge and Somerville today assailed the British plan to partition Palestine.

The former prime minister asserted, in part, that Great Britain's report of the Royal Commission, affecting Palestine, was a "betrayal of 16 million Jews."

Simultaneous with the praise for the Lloyd George article has been the commendation by Greater Boston Jewry of William Randolph Hearst for bringing the statement to the attention of the American public.

Mosier B. Goldberg, assistant city solicitor of Cambridge, declared today that "William Randolph Hearst is to be congratulated for his work on the current Palestine question."

Goldberg is president of the Cambridge Civic League, president of the Cambridge Hebrew School, past commander of the Jewish War Veterans, Post 35, of Cambridge, a member of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks and Knights of Pythias.

AIDED BY JEWS

He declared today:

"An important result of the World War was the recognition by all nations that Jewish claims to the creation of a homeland in Palestine were justified.

"On November 2, 1917, Lord Balfour, then British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, let it be known that England 'views with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.' This declaration was reaffirmed at an international conference held at San Remo.

"A dream and a hope, built up over a period of some 2500 years, developed almost into reality, is now shattered by an agency of the same country which gave material form to a hope of a home reborn.

UNHOLY EXCUSE

"Lord Peel, chairman of the Royal Commission which recommended the tripartition of Palestine, stated reasons impelling the action of the members of this commission.

"Running my mind's eye over the pages of Palestinian history, since the days of English control, I may now conclude that the statement of the Earl of Peel, professing to express the unanimous opinion of the other members of the commission, is not a reason but an unholy excuse.

"England has unwarrantedly broken faith with the Jewish people. England cannot now justify her action, but she may make amends through scrapping her tripartition policy.

"Britain may well adopt the attitude of her most favorite son, David Lloyd George."

Joseph Blumsack, president of the Somerville Hebrew Civic Association, said:

"That the Jewish people justified the trust placed in them in setting up a national homeland was admirably proven by the unbiased commission that Mr. William Randolph Hearst sent to Palestine.

"Should it be their reward that after making a worthwhile haven out of a wilderness, they must suffer by such an unreasonable act as the plan to partition Palestine?

"They are not punished because they failed. They are not punished because they were unreasonable to their fellowman. They are punished because the nation who was given the trust failed.

MODEL CITIES

"Former British Prime Minister David Lloyd George, in his article in last Sunday's Advertiser, showed how the Jews were betrayed by Great Britain. The Jewry of the world who contributed to make Palestine a homeland for their oppressed fellowman must meet this rebuke with a plea that Great Britain relinquish its partition plan.

"The Jews of Palestine have built model cities. They will continue to make great strides if Great Britain would keep its promise and let the Jews make Palestine their homeland."

Hyman Pill, Cambridge merchant and an officer of the Hebrew Immigration Aid Society and Young Men's Hebrew Association, said:

"The brilliant article from the pen of David Lloyd George, in whose regime the Balfour Declaration was issued, has brought to the attention of all fair-minded men the real issue of the Palestine problem. Here is the situation, as it seems to me, reduced to its simplest elements:

"Palestine was a waste land, a neglected land, mismanaged and misruled for centuries. The Jews are a scattered people, cherishing a strange love for the land of their fathers, hoping to have a portion of their members repatriated to re-establish a homeland where Jewish history might again be woven.

"Came Lord Balfour, a responsible spokesman for the great British empire, and said to the Jews in effect:

"'I pledge you the support of His Majesty's government for your plans and program of re-establishing a national Jewish homeland in your ancestral land of Palestine. We will do everything in our power to facilitate this undertaking, with the understanding, of course, that the civil and political rights of the resident population are not to be defeated.'

"This pledge was supported and ratified by the leading nations of the world and was made a part of the program of the League of Nations.

"By consent of all leading nations, Great Britain was appointed trustee, or mandatory, to administer the affairs of Palestine with the object in view of establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine consistently with the safeguarding of the elementary rights of the Arab population.

BEAUTIFUL GESTURE

"Upon acceptance of the trust, the then government of Lloyd George made the beautiful gesture of appointing a Jew, Sir Herbert Samuel, as the first High Commissioner to Palestine.

"There were three parties primarily interested in the Palestine arrangement: The League of Nations, as owner of Palestine, had undertaken to help settle the world Jewish problem by establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine; Great Britain was the trustee owing a duty both to the League of Nations and the Jewish people.

"Acting on the tri-lateral understanding, the interested parties, in the main, carried out their undertakings. That difficulties would arise between the Jews and the Arabs, due to the very nature of the situation, soon became evident.

"The Jews, for their part, entered in the venture with inspiring zeal and energy. The choicest of its young men from all parts of the world flocked to Palestine to make sacrifices, endure hardships and suffering privations, in order to build up a homeland for their people. The masses at large gave money, freely, cheerfully, in tens of millions of dollars to supplement the Jewish end of the bargain."

PALESTINE ROW UP TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

dated area, be created in the Holy Land.

At the same time, the action affords other nations, including the United States, which has a pact with Britain on Palestine, to advance their views on the bitterly-contested scheme which Lloyd George recently termed a "betrayal of 16,000,000 Jews."

It also gives Arab and Jewish leaders an opportunity to attempt negotiating an agreement settling their differences permanently—an agreement which if achieved might lead to abandonment of the partition plan.

The royal commission's plan, together with the British White Paper supporting it and proposing temporary restrictions on Jewish immigration to Palestine, will now be presented to the league in eight days. If approved at Geneva, the plan in a fuller, more detailed form will then be again submitted to the British Parliament.

But if the league disapproves, the plan is almost certain to be abandoned because Geneva has the authority to decide on altering the present British mandate over Palestine, which the league issued.

DROPS OWN MOTION

The government accepted Churchill's amendment shortly before midnight, then dropped its own original motion calling for an immediate vote of approval of the royal commission's report. Accepting the amendment in behalf of the cabinet, Earl Winterton, former Colonial undersecretary and now Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, announced:

"The proposals contained in the White Paper will be taken by the colonial secretary before the mandates commission at Geneva on July 30, and if the mandates commission accepts them, there will be the fullest opportunity for Commons to consider the scheme and all of its details afterward."

While the House of Lords heard an accusation that the British government sought Premier Mussolini's tacit acquiescence in the partition plan, one of the outstanding features of the debate in Commons was an address by James De Rothschild, member of the old Jewish banking family and a leader in the world Zionist movement.

Rothschild, a liberal member of Commons, described the royal commission's report as a "concession to terrorism," declaring:

"It has increased tenfold the difficulty of reconciling the Arab and the Jew, although there is nothing which I and my family, who have worked for Palestine, wish more than a good understanding between the two races.

"The report not only tears up the Balfour declaration (pledging establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine) and the mandate, but it tears up Palestine into two or three pieces giving only one-fifth of the whole country to the Jews, while the Jews' proportion of the population is one-third."

SCORE MUSSOLINI

Particularly stiff opposition to the partition proposals developed in the House of Lords where the Laborite Lord Strabolgi charged that the British government is asking its ambassador in Rome to call on Premier Mussolini and ask him not to comment adversely on the royal commission's report.

To this allegation, Lord Strabolgi added:

"But Mussolini's minions are already in touch with the Zionists promising them all kinds of things and I should not be surprised to know that he is also in touch with the Arabs promising them all kinds of things as well."

LAUD HEARST PAPERS AT ZIONIST MEET

(Special to Boston Evening American)

New York, July 22—William Randolph Hearst was praised as the man who made possible the unofficial Senatorial commission on Palestine in a recent speech by Elihu D. Stone, vice-president of the Zionist organization of America, before the Zionist convention in New York.

Mr. Stone, of Boston, is a former United States District attorney of that city.

Mr. Stone said in part:

"I am glad to rise for the purpose of supporting the resolution and urge its adoption by the convention. Indeed, we owe a great debt of gratitude to the three senators for the signal service they rendered to the Jewish people and Palestine. These senators presented our case eloquently, sympathetically and fairly before the enlightened American public opinion.

PRICELESS CONTRIBUTION

"The publication of their reports in the Hearst newspapers was a priceless contribution. It must be remembered that the senators went to Palestine last winter, commissioned by Mr. Hearst, at a time when the Arab disturbances were at their height; when the outlook was very dark; when a friendly word was sadly needed; when it was of the utmost importance to the Jewish people to make the American public conversant with their case. The commission did it beautifully and reverently.

"It is my impression that it was the Hearst senatorial commission which first called to the concern of the United States in the affairs of Palestine and the mandate, by virture of the terms of the treaty of 1924 executed between the United States and Great Britain with reference to Palestine. It is our duty and privilege as Zionists to say to the senators that we are deeply grateful to them.

LAUDS FRIENDSHIP

"Let us convey to Mr. William Randolph Hearst, who made the Senatorial commission possible, that we are appreciative of his most valued service to the cause of our people and Palestine, by widely publishing the reports of the three senators in his newspapers. It was a manifestation of friendship at a time when that friendship was most needed.

"For all these we will be forever grateful to Mr. Hearst.

"We are an appreciative people. We may forgive our enemies, but we never forget our friends."

"Your Figure, Madame!"

Actresses Say 'Let Yourself Go Loose and Limber'

By IDA JEAN KAIN

A THING that is well done always looks easy. This was never more true than in the make-believe world of the theater, where the accomplished actress speaks her lines and plays her part as if she had been born to the role.

One of the most natural-appearing actresses is the lovely Betty Field of the "Room Service" cast; but, take her word for it, such ease in acting is earned by rigorous training.

The actress spends almost as much time disciplining her muscles as the chorus girl. To appear graceful, she must have poise and suppleness, and she must know the secret of complete relaxation. Never at any time must there be tension, for tension causes awkardness. So there are exercises, such as this one, to relax you so completely that you fall down on the floor in a heap.

POSITION: Stand with the feet well apart, arms hanging at sides, head up.

MOVEMENT: Beginning with the fingers, let the life go out of the hands, the arms and the shoulders. With the shoulders all loose and relaxed, think of the head as a balloon in which there is a bearing. Let it roll about on the shoulders for a few seconds. Now let the body fall forward limply at the waist, and with arms and head hanging, sway on the hips from side to side. Finally, let the knees crumple and collapse slowly on the floor.

This is a splendid anti-tension exercise practiced by actresses. Take it—with a glass of warm milk—before retiring if you are plagued with insomnia.

Stretching, by the way, is a favorite theatrical exercise, since it is both slimming and relaxing.

Walking, Miss Field says, is most important to the actress.

If there is anything wrong with your measurements, send for the "Spot Exercises for Symmetry" and practice them regularly. Enclose a stamped, addressed envelope when you write for this leaflet. Address your request to Miss Kain, in care of this paper.

MADGE LEARNS THAT JACK LESLIE HAS AN ACCOMPLICE

CHAPTER 360

I CAME back from the terrifying thought of Harry Underwood's possible participation in the trapping of the men in the shack, and the tragedy it might mean for his wife.

"I fancy Mr. Graham and more probably, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood, will be able to think of some plan when they come," I said. "And I never can thank you you enough for telling me so clearly about this. You're sure this is all you overheard?"

"I've told you every word," Mrs. Ticer assented earnestly. "And I'm so glad if I've been of any use. But you're not going yet?"

SOMETHING ELSE

"I must get back," I said. "Katie has dinner nearly ready, and Mr. Graham is very hungry."

"Then, of course, you'll have to hurry," she said with connubial wisdom born of long marital experience. "It don't do to come between a man and his vittles," she added tritely. "But I can't help it if he's starving to death, there's something else I've got to tell you before you go."

"I thought you said you had told me every word you had overheard," I parried, conscious of a queer disinclination to hear whatever it was she meant to tell me.

"I did," she answered quickly. "This is something else—not about them. It's about that man that was asking for Mary. You know, the one they took over to the jail at Southampton."

"You don't mean he's escaped, or been released from jail, do you?" I asked.

"Oh! no, no!" she returned with quick reassurance. "Nothing like that. He's safe behind the bars, or was yesterday. I've had pa inquire every time he went to Southampton and he had to go there yesterday. But he has somebody on the outside helping him to get track of Mary."

"How do you know that?" I asked terrified, for my memory suddenly brought me a terrifying vision of myself fleeing frantically back to the farmhouse when the men were out hunting Jack Leslie, while behind me came the thudding feet of the unknown marauder against whom I had brushed when I had gone out to find Dicky.

QUESTIONS JERRY

"This is why I know," she said with precision. "He's been trying to get something out of Jerry about Mary, the same as the other one did."

Supplying Cholesterin Is Secret

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU CAN help your "top skin" to stay young, you will have hit upon the surest way to hold on to the transparent, smooth loveliness of texture that makes a child's skin so delectable . . . and an older woman's so envied.

It's been proved that oils will conteract dryness which digs out those terrible furrows.

In fact, that's no secret at all. That original super-smartie, Cleopatra, sent her Ophir gold on many a weary journey to bring back some precious oil whose powers were whispered by a new-captured slave.

We've had our own present-day rage of possible an' impossible oils, made from every which thing you could think of. Nearly always there was great mystery and to-do about their origins.

Therefore, it's refreshing as two mint juleps to find a very special facial oil that divulges exactly its secret of returning youth to dried-out skins!

• • •

It is prepared by a French woman whose cosmetics are eagerly bought by an ever-increasing circle of knowing beauty seekers.

There's a richness to her creams, a sincerity in compounding and telling about them that's easily apparent.

"Cholesterin" is the precious possession of this facial oil.

More than that, the cholesterin is in such a form that it can be readily absorbed by that top-skin which makes mischief with its lines when nourishment from beneath fails it a little. You must leap into the breach at that fatal time, when all of a sudden progressive drying, fewer capillaries and hence less richness of blood and a decided loss of elasticity happen at once, like some awful nightmare.

There is no mistaking the minute, you may be sure. A look into your mirror with side-lighting will expose the whole, traitorous business.

You know the life-giving properties of cholesterin . . . without it even the leaves in the trees would hang sere and colorless, whether spring came and went or not.

• • •

It's so unnecessary for anyone to let excessive dryness of her skin lead to premature ageing and all the woes that go with it. More so now that this oil has arrived with its physiological action on skin metabolism.

We shall be glad to give you all the details on the special facial oil which goes scientifically after wrinkles and renews complexion transparency. Phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays until 5, or write her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tests Aid in Curing Hay Fever

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

THOUSANDS AND thousands of persons are the victims of hay fever.

This annoying disorder is thought to be the effect of pollen or some other substance that is irritating to the given individual.

There have been devised certain tests to determine the particular plant, the pollen of which is responsible for the attacks.

It is too bad that large numbers fail to avail themselves of these tests. This is unfortunate because every hay fever victim should try to learn, if he can, exactly what pollen or substance has to do with his misery. Even if you have had this test performed without good results, it is well that you have it repeated.

Every year new species are being added to the long list of known hay fever-producing plants. No doubt you will be surprised to learn that the list, formerly a short one, now contains more than 100 different plants. Many grasses and plants have been discovered to be among the offenders.

The test is a simple procedure, painless and harmless. To avoid it is to neglect the chance of a possible cure.

VACCINE

One after another the extracts of certain pollens are injected under the skin. The area around the scratch mark is watched to see what reaction takes place. If there should be redness and swelling within a few hours or days, it means the individual is sensitive to that particular pollen.

If this is the case it may be possible to obtain a vaccine derived from that pollen. If this preparation is injected into the tissues several times, the resistance against the evil effects of the pollen is obtained.

Beauty Tips

FINGER NAILS should be without flaws.

Do we hear groans from the home girls who flourish dust cloths and wipe up the kitchen floor? Even so, their hands must be in good condition.

Like the skin, finger nails are impaired by grime. The texture is changed, the lovely, transparent appearance vanishes, and the nails are clouded even after the most thorough scrubbing.

Protect your hands with gloves—cotton ones when dusting, rubber ones when doing rough work.

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

By BETTY ALDEN

THOSE OF US who have only a nodding acquaintance with that sport known to its exponents as the piscatorial art . . . but to you and me merely as fishing . . . have always associated tuna fishing with Florida and tropic waters . . .

But, much to our surprise, we have discovered that the pursuit of the tuna is becoming a popular sport on the North Shore . . . Just last weekend Mr. and Mrs. Justin Griess of Manchester took a party of sea-going disciples of Isaac Walton to try a little tuna fishing off Ipswich . . . Mr. and Mrs. Henry Livingston Rowe of Beverly Farms and their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard J. Cassedy of New York, who were visiting on the Shore over the weekend, were also in the Griess' yachting party . . .

MRS. HENRY McB. PARKER

Messrs. Rowe and Griess report that the tuna are very game fighters and provide lively sport, and some of them are quite big . . . Of course, the ones which were caught and brought home to the Griess and Rowe ice boxes, didn't weigh near the limit . . . but you should hear about the one that got away! . . .

Tuna fishing has recently aroused so much interest along the shore that the Gloucester Chamber of Commerce, which has knowledge to spare about every other type of fish and fishing, is anxious to gather information on this type of ocean sport, new to these waters . . .

They should get in touch with Messrs. Griess and Rowe and the various other North Shore sportsmen who have transplanted the sport from the Florida coast . . .

Entertains at Bar Harbor Dinner

PEOPLE OFTEN TELL of what they plan to do when their ship comes in . . . and Miss Bell Gurnee, who is summering at Hull's Cove, near Bar Harbor, had laid her plans, like all the rest . . . Tuesday she used the arrival of the yacht, Hi-Esmaro, as an excuse for a large dinner party at the Bar Harbor Club . . . The Hi-Esmaro is owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Mandeville of New York, who had with them Miss Gurnee's brother-in-law and sister, Colonel and Mrs. Francis L. V. Hoppin, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Victor Loew, who are opening their summer cottage at Bar Harbor for the remainder of the season . . .

Seated around the festive board at the dinner party were a number of Bostonians who belong to the summer social colony at this famous Maine resort . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno of Commonwealth avenue, Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike of Marlborough street, who was Lucy Gurnee, and, to the best of our knowledge, a sister of the hostess . . . Mrs. Thorndike's summer estate, Thorn Craig, is situated in Bar Harbor . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson of Beacon street drove over from their suite at the Malvern Hotel to attend the dinner and welcome the visiting yachtsmen and their wives . . .

Other prominent guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barret, Miss Gertrude Sampson and Mr. Charles Sampson, Mrs. Van Rensaalaer Johnson, F. Foster Skillman, Rev. Leon A. Shearer, Mrs. A. M. Patterson and Theodore Marburg . . .

The sight of the Seven Seas, 168 foot square rigged yacht, which is now riding at anchor in Bar Harbor, has caused many of the old-timers on Mt. Desert Island to heave a sentimental sigh for the good old days of Maine coast-wise navigation . . . when it was a common sight to see the tall masts and spars of a number of coastal schooners, and even a square rigged ship or two anchored off in the bay . . . The Seven Seas was formerly a Swedish training ship, but is now owned by Dr. Walter S. Gubelman, Jr., of Convent, N. J., who is cruising to Nova Scotia with a group of friends aboard . . .

After spending a month as a volunteer worker at Children's Island, Jean Halladay is going to a camp in Putney, Vt., for August . . . This camp is a unique co-educational institution which both boys and girls attend for camp life as well as a chance to study dramatics, music or art . . . Jean's particular forte is acting and last year she had a chance to try her skill as an actress in "Captain Applejack," which the campers produced . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Halladay of Chestnut Hill, who will present her to society at a tea on September 27.

Gable, A-Hunting, Is Hunted Himself

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1937.)

Hollywood, July 22 (INS)—Clark Gable left here intending to hunt bears, but soon became the quarry and, according to reports reaching Hollywood, was too tired to pull a trigger when he finally arrived at his Montana destination.

The star's progress across the country was so delayed by fans he was two days behind schedule making the trip.

In Binkham City, Utah, the actor stopped to have dinner [illegible]. By the time he had finished 500 people had gathered and traffic was jammed for three blocks.

The star autographed his way through the mob, jumped into his car and made a getaway, only to be pursued by a motor caravan of admirers.

With telephone operators passing the word from town to town, the actor's presence was so advertised he couldn't have met bigger receptions if he had hired an advance man to ballyhoo the trip.

Millionaire, 56, Weds His Nurse

Bradford, N. H., July 22—Romance of the sick room united a 56-year-old New Jersey millionaire in marriage with his 36-year-old nurse, it was revealed here today.

John Rugge, retired manufacturer, of Ridgewood, N. J., was married to Miss Eleanor F. Johnson, also of Ridgewood.

The couple was united by Reverend George P. Duke, pastor of the Bradford Baptist Church and the ceremony took place in the garden of the old Colonial residence of Miss Ann Snell Lewis, a friend.

Nurses Seek 8-Hour Day

Mrs. King's 'Illness' Hit In Court

Lawyer Insists She Went to Beach

Salem, July 22—Mrs. Clara M. King of Newburyport, who failed to appear yesterday for a hearing in the litigation over the $100,000 Landford estate, was absent again today but sent a doctor's prescription as evidence she'd had a nervous collapse.

In opposition to this, Attorney James Carens, representing the estate, said he had been informed she was at Salisbury Beach yesterday on a pleasure trip.

Master James Farley declared a recess to give Carens time to bring in witnesses on that point.

The administrator of the estate of Hiram H. Landford, former mayor of Newburyport, is seeking to have Mrs. King enjoined from further court action asking a share in the estate.

She was secretary to the 90-year-old former mayor and her diary, with notations of meetings with him, has gone into the court record.

As a result of a telephone call from Mrs. King's 15-year-old daughter, Esther, yesterday, saying her mother was under a doctor's care, her husband was called as a witness today.

Edward J. King said he had not seen his wife since Tuesday evening when he left for work.

"That's a common occurrence," he said. "She could be gone for three days, or killed in the road, and I'd never know it."

Chooses Mother Over Kin's Riches

Chicago, July 22 (INS)—Given her choice by Judge Walter J. La Buy, 9-year-old Elaine Harnett chose comparative poverty with her mother rather than riches with her grandmother.

With her grandmother, Mrs. Mae Kirkpatrick of Chicago, who sought custody of the child, Elaine would have had a trust fund and other trappings of wealth.

Republican Club Planning Cruise

Led by Representative Christian A. Herter, the Massachusetts Republican Club will have its annual moonlight cruise on Sunday, August 3, it was announced today.

Representative Herter, who is president of the club, has arranged to take more than 300 members aboard the S. S. Steel Pier.

MARCONI PROVIDED WORK TO CONTINUE

Rome, July 22 (AP)—While his body lay in state today, associates of Guglielmo Marconi following his directions, went ahead with experiments the great inventor started before he died.

Although sorrowing because Marconi's death ended a collaboration of nearly 40 years, Marchese Luigi Solari talked enthusiastically of the promise of scientific legacies from Marconi's genius.

Solari, who is president of the Marconi Company, said the problem which occupied the genius at the time of his death was the adaptation of naturally produced waves—such as the sun's radiation—to practical transmission of messages, Solari said.

"Marconi realized his heart condition and made careful provisions to insure the continuance of his work in the event of sudden death. Only the day before he died, we studied together the data gathered in these experiments."

Thousands of Romans who were unable to glimpse the state funeral for Guglielmo Marconi threaded their way through the Church of St. Mary of the Angels today to pay their respects to the great inventor.

The body lay in state again today for as many as possible to see before it was taken aboard a train tonight for the 200-mile journey to his birthplace, Bologna, where it will be placed in the Marconi family tomb.

BOSTON Folk Sail for EUROPE

H. E. FOLEYS EMBARK

The Statendam sailed from the Commonwealth Pier yesterday carrying several Bostonians bound for European vacations.

A delegation of friends were down to wish smooth sailing to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elliot Foley of Hyde Park who left on their sixth European junket. They're concentrating on sights of Central Europe this season and have not forgotten the charms of the French Riviera in planning their itinerary.

ACE OF CLUBS MEMBER

Mrs. Joseph Leary, Mrs. Foley's Cecilian Guild fellow member, boarded the ship to bid bon voyage, her tangerine shantung edged with white and a large linen chapeau completing the costume. Mrs. Foley chose navy challis embroidered in white, a natty white turban and a cluster of gardenias for her traveling costume.

Traveling with them is Marion Shaughness of Milton, Ace of Clubs member, who took along her sketching kit to preserve in oils a bit of Europe's charm.

A young crowd came down to see Virginia Hayes of Peabody and her sister, Mrs. Frank Sheerin off. They're visiting relatives in London and will go on a motor trip through the British Isles. Virginia sported orchids with her ensemble of black and beige. Mrs. Sheerin was gowned in dark sheer.

Martha Hurley, flame knit and navy, her smart costume, was a member of the party bidding farewell to the Hayes travelers. Others included Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent Murray, Helen Kirby, Ellen Kirby and Mrs. John Hayes.

FETED AT PARTY

Mrs. Sheerin and Virginia, active members of the Boston chapter of Trinity College alumnae were feted at a recent party given by Mrs. Francis Murphy of Salem and Mrs. J. M. McDonald of Swampscott.

Also sailing abroad for the summer was Rose Downes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Downes of Winchester, past president of the Winchester Guild of Infant Saviour.

Bridge Fan Women a 'Menace'

Card-Playing Type Is Called 'Dangerous'

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22 (INS)—The card-pla[illegible] bidding woman is a dangerous element to society."

That was the statement of Mrs. Eudora R. Richardson, of Richmond, Va., before the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women here.

Never before in history have we had such a type as the card playing woman, Mrs. Richardson declared.

"We are developing a group of parasites who are injuring society," she said. "The card-playing type is a dangerous element in society."

Eunice M. Hilton, dean of women at the University of Syracuse, told the convention:

"We have glorified money instead of work well done."

"We are going to have to convince our young people that pride should be in one's job, whether it is a white-collar job or otherwise, before they will be willing to take the kind of work many of them are fitted for, instead of insisting on that for which they are not prepared."

Miss Susanne Shanna of South Boston, Mass., emphasized the necessity of participation by unmarried women in the opposition of married women to discrimination in their jobs.

Mother at 14 Sets Babe's Bridal Day

Louisville, Ky., July 22 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Mrs. Beatrice Perkins was calmly maternal on her first wedding anniversary as she cuddled her day-old baby in City Hospital and planned the infant's future—even to setting her wedding day.

Maryanna—that's the baby's name—is going to be a school teacher and she isn't going to be married until she is [illegible] because she says "a girl shouldn't get married too young."

Beatrice, who has straight red hair, pretty white skin and teeth and a dignified little-girl expression in her wide hazel eyes, thinks the baby looks like Dallas Perkins, the 23-year-old father.

Maryanna weighs six pounds and four ounces.

BRITAIN WEIGHS NAZI, ITALIAN WAR MOVES

[illegible]yright, 1937, by International News Service

London, July 22—Britain's imperial defense committee met today to consider French charges that German submarine bases have been established in Spanish North Africa.

Latest Italian activities at Majorca, where it was reported 600 Italian military technicians have taken over military control of the island, also were considered.

Most of the Italian technicians at Majorca were said to be airmen.

The Italians also were reported to be heavily fortifying the island and establishing an air base housing 40 war planes in underground hangars.

THREAT TO BRITAIN

Officials feared the reported German and Italian activities might prove a distinct threat to Britain's Mediterranean "life-line."

The swift action of the committee in taking the reports under consideration gave added weight to the recent House of Commons speech by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, warning Italy and other nations Britain is now prepared to fight for her Mediterranean interests.

This speech has been generally regarded here as underlining a stiffening of British foreign policy toward Europe's dictator nations, partly the result of Britain's gigantic rearmament plan.

MOROCCAN ACTIVITY

The defense committee meeting followed French accusations of Nazi intrigue in Spanish Morocco, and charges that Germany has constructed six airplane and submarine bases in that region.

These charges are believed to be the subject of important behind-the-scenes Anglo-French talks.

Observers linked the charges with recent British [illegible] following discovery that Spanish insurgents had mounted a battery of big guns at Algeciras within firing distance of Britain's fortress at Gibraltar.

Both Sides Claim Madrid Victories

Hendaye, France, July 22 (INS)—Heavy fighting continued today on the blood-soaked battle front west of Madrid as both loyalists and insurgents claimed major triumphs.

Government officials at Madrid issued a communique claiming that loyalist forces staging a "brilliant counter-attack" recaptured Hill 660 west of the Spanish capital after bitter fighting.

The insurgent high command at Salamanca reported rebels on Madrid's west front were continuing their operations methodically. Rebel advices said the insurgents gained and "solidly defended" a new line, occupying a dozen square miles of government territory.

Loyalist forces the insurgents claimed, were handicapped by lack of ammunition. They lost 30 machine guns, 5000 hand grenades and seven tanks in 48 hours fighting.

WARREN FROTHINGHAM JOHN POLANDO

The 1937 airplane thief sent police "up in the air" today over a plane stolen from its hangar at Salisbury. Plane was forced down after ripping through telephone and electric wires near Good Harbor Beach, Gloucester. Mysterious pilot was missing when police arrived. The plane is owned jointly by Warren Frothingham, Mrs. Louise Frothingham and John Polando, the noted flier. They were photoed in the darkness early today after being summoned by police when the plane was found.

CRISIS IN CHINA ENDS, TOKYO ANNOUNCES

Tokyo, July 22 (INS)—The dispute between Japan and China in the Peiping area has been virtually settled, the war ministry announced officially tonight.

General Sung Cheh-Yuan, chairman of the Hopei-Chahar political council, has agreed to replace the anti-Japanese officers of the 29th Route Army with leaders who are [illegible] the announcement said.

General Sung is anxious to remove all malcontents from the North China area and put a stop to the northward penetration of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nanking regime, which is exactly in line with Japan's policies.

An important army officer due here from Peiping tomorrow is expected to inform the war ministry the North China garrison desires to clear the entire territory of all Chiang Kai-Shek elements and wishes Japan's sanction to take all means necessary to achieve this aim.

General Sung's agreement is accepted here as dependable whether or not it is honored by the Nanking government.

Chinese Troops Leave Danger Zone

Peiping, July 22 (INS)—After hours of indecision and threats of a renewed Japanese attack on Chinese positions the outlook for a peaceful settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute suddenly brightened today as troops of both sides withdrew from the danger zones.

Units of the 37th Chinese division left the Wang Ping area, and Japanese troops retired from their "front line" posts, to concentration points in the region of Fengtai.

Earlier, Chinese authorities had informed International News Service that a Japanese attack might be expected momentarily.

These fears were raised by a [illegible] in withdrawal of the Chinese troops in accordance with an agreement between Japanese and Hopei-Chahar political council officials and by the statement of the commander of the Chinese garrison who said:

"Wang Ping is holy ground. We will never retire from it."

For hours after this the 37th division refused to give up Wang Ping, upsetting for a time all peaceful calculations. Finally, however, they were persuaded to leave when the Japanese also retired.

"Assassination" Attempt Denied

Shanghai, July 22 (AP)—A reported "bold attempt" to assassinate Japanese Ambassador Shigeru Kawagoe today was dismissed by Japanese authorities as a misunderstanding.

The Japanese consulate at Tientsin, where the envoy has been since the flare-up between China and Japan, at first said the "assassin" was frustrated by the alertness of consular police.

Later it said a person held for questioning had been released when no evidence was found of a plot to [illegible] Kawagoe.

STABBED GIRL IN LIFE FIGHT

Her lung punctured by a knife wielded by an unknown assailant, Miss May Oberlander, 17, Hyde Park avenue, Roslindale, was fighting for her life at the Faulkner Hospital today.

She was stabbed twice in the back yesterday while fighting off the unwelcome attentions of a 19-year-old youth who accosted her in the Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain.

Miss Oberlander told police that although she did not know the youth, on previous occasions he had sought to "date her up." She said he was about five feet four inches tall and was foreign-looking in appearance.

FINANCE BOARD TO AIR SOMERVILLE CHARGES

Startling charges involving Somerville city payrolls and other expenditures are due for airing before the State Emergency Finance Board tomorrow, it was indicated today.

The were filed with the board by former Mayor James E. Hagan in protest aginst the granting of authority for the city to borrow $968,000.

HAGAN'S LETTER

In his letter, former Mayor Hagan said, in part:

"You have before you an order from the city of Somerville requesting a loan in the amount of $968,000. I know your board is always willing to approve borrowings for emergencies. I approve of a city borrowing money when necessary, but I do not consider all this loan of $968,000 to the city of Somerville, either an emergency or a necessity, for the following reasons:

"1—The budget for the year 1937 is the highest budget Somerville has ever had.

"2—The amount of money spent for WPA materials in Somerville is double the amount of money spent for materials for the same number of people working on the WPA in other cities the same size as Somerville.

"3—The administrative payroll for the WPA is $175,000 as compared with an average payroll of $20,000 in other cities the same size as Somerville.

OUTSIDE TRUCKS

"4—Money has been spent for purposes other than that for which it was appropriated.

"5—Trucks are hired by the city of Somerville from outside the city.

"6—There are people on the payroll who do not exist.

"7—Hired machinery costing from $50 to $70 a day remains idle.

"8—WPA material is used to renovate the homes of high city officials.

"If this wild spending of money is allowed to continue, Somerville will soon be in the same position as Fall River, which will mean suffering and hardship to the business men, taxpayers, city employes, welfare and soldier relief recipients and WPA workers.

"All the citizens of Somerville are justly indignant about this huge loan, which has to be paid next year, so I ask your board to investigate the above."

Lions Declare War On Communism At Convention

Chicago, July 22—Two stirring denunciations of Communism were heard at yesterday's sessions of the International Association of Lions clubs, meeting here.

Percy Crosby, creator of the best loved of all comic strip characters "Skippy," delivered the principal address of the day, taking for his subject "Our Heritage of Democracy."

"Will the American people surrender their heritage of free speech, freedom of the press, and the right to assemble?" he said. "I feel that the answer from coast to coast is no. I believe that America is awakened."

Of Communism he said:

"It is a negative philosophy of control for humanity, and its symbol is the minus sign. Let us analyze this form of dictatorship. The warring factions are the bourgeoise and the proletariat, the rich and the workers. They feel that the workers should take control and take from the rich, but if the poor become rich and the rich poor, does that solve the problem? If the poor take the money from the rich, isn't it fair that the rich in turn become Communists and take from the over-night capitalists?"

A resolution denouncing Communism was presented at the morning session and is expected to be adopted Friday.

BAKERY DRIVER HURT IN CRASH

Giacomo Tolo, 56, Dudley street, Roxbury, was seriously injured today when he was thrown under the wheels of his bakery wagon by the force of a collision with a car driven by Peter Atostolos Bowers street, Lowell, at Dedham street and Shawmut avenue, South End. Two of the wheels passed over his body.

Tolo was rushed to City Hospital where he was found suffering multiple contusions and abrasions of the body and possible internal injuries.

Berlin, July 22 (INS)—In a story datelined Marseilles the newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, Chancellor Hitler's own organ, charged today that 800 French foreign Legionnaires were shipped to Loyalist Spain in June.

4 Rockport Artists Plan Appeal on Sunday Blue Law

Gloucester, July 22—Four artists convicted in Essex district court of selling paintings on the Lord's Day were ready today to carry their fight to Superior Court.

Found guilty yesterday by Judge Lincoln S. Simmons of violating the so-called "blue law" prohibiting business on Sunday, all four had their cases placed on file.

Three defendants were acquitted. Lewis Whitney, Rockport artist who specializes in pewter work, was found guilty on a separate charge and fined $20. Whitney was fined because he told the court he believed his shop ought to be open on Sunday and that he would open it again on Sunday.

Other convicted defendants were Arthur T. Smith, owner of an art gallery, Anthony Thieme, noted marine painter, and Miss Hale Anthony, operator of a gift shop.

U. S. PACIFISM SELFISH, CULBERTSON SAYS

Orono, Me., July 22 (AP)—W. S. Culbertson, Georgetown University professor and former ambassador to Chile, charged today American pacificism often was selfish and "unwilling to do anything for anybody's peace except our own."

Declaring "we live in a world organized for war," Culbertson, in a speech prepared for the University of Maine Institute of World Affairs, said America did not reveal a constructive approach to the peace problem.

"We run from responsibility," he asserted. "Our peace movement is usually negative; it is supported by the keep-us-out-of-war sentiment; it is grounded in the belief that we can live at peace in a world at war and in the conceit that we are more peaceful people than other peoples who lack our geographical advantage."

Culbertson said preferential tariffs, such as those in force among nations of the British commonwealth, "cannot be justified either as sound commercial policy or as good international politics."

He endorsed Secretary Hull's trade agreements program.

Regarding trade agreements Culbertson said:

"We need not have fewer professions of good neighborliness, such sentiments are useful . . . But we need more insistence upon our rights—insistence that discriminations be removed and that we have a more equitable share of world trade."

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

The silliest suggestion of the silly season seems to be Representative Francis Xavier Coyne's "true name" bill for stage and screen stars in Boston. He is said to challenge the Hollywood stars to come before our legislature next year to oppose it.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

My guess is that nobody will appear except the usual busybodies, that Hollywood will ignore the bill, except for a few wisecracks, and that the bill will be given leave to withdraw, as gracefully as possible, as in the case of other crackpot legislation.

It would be easy to give a long list of notable stars of the stage, and even of the films, who in the past few years have made great reputations honestly earned under names certainly not baptismal.

That the habit of changing names has grown in recent years means little or nothing. It would be easy to razz the proposition all over this column and make something pretty funny out of it.

Movie (With Sound) of Coyne's Mental Workings

But I am not interested in being funny about it. I want to know why. I want very much to know why. I'd like to get a moving picture (with sound) of what is going on in the mind of Representative Francis Xavier Coyne, in other words what is eating him, to make him sponsor an idea like that which is bound to get him only raspberries.

Is there the remotest glimmering of an idea behind the suggestion? If so, what is it? I believe that in one of our states, New York perhaps, a person merely has to record publicly any name that he feels he wants to be known by.

In Massachusetts a person must get permission of a court and, except for hard personal opposition, the chances are that he will be allowed to change his name. Occasionally a Cabot objects to that ancestral patronymic being used instead of something obviously alien that sounds a little like it.

The Cabots forget that once the family were Italian adventurers, just as it is likely the Paul Reveres forget that their ancestor was one Apollo di Rivera. And no one thinks the less of either.

More Subtle Move Behind Coyne's Plan?

Surely Representative Francis Xavier Coyne is not chiefly interested in safeguarding the names supposdly sacred to the old Anglo-Saxon stock of New England. He can't even be primarily interested in safeguarding the fine old Milesian names. The Milesians carry their names proudly like an oriflamme, anyway.

I am afraid the motive behind Representative Francis Xavier Coyne's bill is a more subtle one, one that is aimed at representatives of what a former governor used to call "the newer races," who need something simpler, less polysyllabic, perhaps less Mittel-European, for booking and billboard purposes. If they do, what of it?

But I crave to know what particular bee is in the bonnet of Representative Francis Xavier Coyne. What does he expect to get by it? What does he expect to accomplish? And why?

As a matter of fact, let us imagine that bill becomes law and that every stage and screen star in this country or abroad must appear in Massachusetts under his baptismal name. I pass over the fact that this ruling would probably bar from the Commonwealth every moving picture ever made.

Seeking Disguised Nazis Under the Bed?

What would happen? Merely that we would have a new set of names which would embrace every race, religion, language, and tribal fashion of every country in the world. Most of them would probably be a little less glamorous, euphonious, and romantic than the present pseudonyms. Particularly in the case of the Yankees would that be true. Probably in the case of other nationalities, as well.

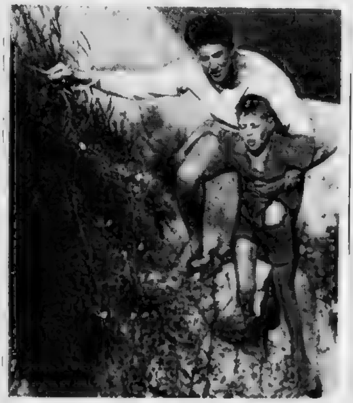
Is Representative Francis Xavier Coyne looking for disguised Nazis under the bed? Or Russian Communists? Or Belfast Orangemen wearing Dublin names? Or Mexican radicals pretending to be Spanish Fascists? Or vice-versa, or what?

I give up. It looks cuckoo to me. I am afraid we shall have to cross it off and attribute it to the well-known necessity for a local politician to keep his name before the public during the debilitating hot months.

By next January he will probably find something more important, and even more sensible, to make the headlines with. Then we can forget this amusing, however puzzling, flight of legislative fancy.

Save Boy on Cliff

Snatched From 105-Ft. Fall



1 Death beckoned to Gerald Hurley, 10, as he clung desperately to a handful of weeds on the side of a cliff known as Water Tower Bluff at Winthrop. Death called and the boy was about to answer. Then his frantic calls for help were heard. Rowe Snow, a Winthrop high school teacher, rushed to get a rope by which he might lower himself to the frightened boy, clinging hopelessly to his frail support of weakening weeds. Photo shows the teacher-hero climbing with the boy to safety

Hundreds of bathers below watched the thrilling rescue of the boy who clung to his precarious perch until he was just about to drop his hold on the frail weeds which supported him.

$6000 Her Loss in GEMS

WOMAN BEATEN AND ROBBED

Battered and suffering with nervous shock, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Williams, 35, of Lexington, Mich., was confined to her Boston hotel room today as police hunted a trio of men who slugged and robbed her of $6000 worth of jewelry last night.

Mrs. Williams rushed out of her room screaming that three men had broken into the room, slugged her with a telephone receiver wrapped in a towel and torn three rings, a wrist watch and a bracelet from her hands.

As a result of the robbery and beating Mrs. Williams is under care of a nurse. X-rays will be taken to determine if any bones were broken in the beating she received.

According to the police Mrs. Williams said she had driven to Boston from Narragansett Pier with a man who claimed to be the [illegible] of a famous cereal manufacturer.

Arriving at the hotel, police said, she told them, her companion invited her up to meet his sister, but the room was unoccupied. Soon afterward, she told police, two swarthy men about 30 years old entered the room and the attack and robbery followed.

The car in which she was driven from Narragansett Pier to Boston was registered from Washington, D. C., police said.

Cape Man and Girl Deny Wife Attack

Edgartown, July 22- Both Representative Joseph A. Sylvia of Oak Bluffs and Miss Blanche Smith, Waltham beautician, denied in court here today that they had ever attacked Sylvia's wife, Lida.

Since neither defendant was represented by counsel, Judge Abner L. Braley allowed a continuance of the cases until July 31. He set bail at $200 for each.

Representative Sylvia, who is 43 and a selectman of Oak Bluffs as well as manager of a large hotel, was taken into custody last night on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Sylvia. The arrest of Miss Smith followed shortly.

Sylvia's wife, in obtaining the warrant, told Clerk of Court Philip Norton that she had been attacked by her husband and the girl when she met them in [illegible] not far from the hotel Sylvia manages.

Miss Smith is a summer visitor at Oak Bluffs. The representative has achieved much prominence recently for his activities in trying to settle the seamen's strike which tied up steamships between the mainland and Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket.

He is a member of the [illegible] committee [illegible] and banks and [illegible].

Both Sylvia and Miss Smith expressed surprise when they were arrested by Chief of Police [illegible] F. [illegible] and State Troopers Joseph M. Fitzgerald and [illegible] F. Barker, Sylvia said.

"There has ben some misunderstanding, I am certain. Mrs. Sylvia, Miss Smith and I have all met and have discussed the matter and I am sure it will be dropped. I committed no assault. I only acted as a peacemaker."

Boston Man Finds Lost Sister in 50-Year Hunt

New York, July 22 (AP)—A brother and sister ended 50 years of search for each other today as they met on a New York pier.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Marjorie McBride

It seems only yesterday visiting writers and lecturers were spoofing Bostonians about their hearty, old-fashioned New England breakfasts, starting off with pork and baked beans, and frequently including mince or apple pie.

MARJORIE McBRIDE

Statistics show such breakfasts are the rare exception now. You have to travel far afield to find one. In common with the other big cities of the country, Boston has turned to lighter snacks on the Sabbath morning. Hotel men and grocers agree a typical light breakfast here today consists of fruit juice, rolls and coffee. What we moderns call a heavy breakfast is a meal of fruit, toast, eggs and bacon . . . possibly sausage . . . and coffee.

A national survey indicates that the old institution of Sunday breakfast is being modified. Even on the farms the stylish meal is no longer the heavy one that used to put Junior to sleep in the midst of the sermon.

Yankee farmers still have griddle cakes and sausage on cold Sunday mornings in winter, but such sticklers for tradition are fast losing ground. Few have fried potatoes or hot biscuits with the morning meal. Pie is almost unheard of, and people who eat doughnuts us[illegible] make a breakfast of them.

Blame Auto for Dearth Of Enjoyable Breakfasts

Philadelphia no longer features scrapple or warmed-over pork and sauerkraut, the same survey shows. Only among the Pennsylvania Dutch can you find such hearty fare, and not always there.

Virginia used to glory in the fact everybody who was anybody had steak for Sunday breakfast. Not any more. Gone, too, are the hot breads and waffles, fried apples, liver and bacon, and cantaloupes that made Richmond famous.

Hotel men say the motor car is the answer. People are anxious to get up and get moving into the country on good Sunday mornings. They make short shrift of breakfast.

Die-hards haven't given up. At the Par[illegible] House and Copley-Plaza, old timers still demand substantial breakfasts they used to get down on the farm. They get them. B[illegible] look lonely sitting marooned among [illegible] sippers.

Accident Started Mitzi's Arliss Act

Romantic stories grow up to explain why certain actors and actresses do what they do. Now Mitzi Green, child star of the screen and a favorite in Boston, tells the true story of how she came to build up her famous impersonation of George Arliss.

She drank a glass of cold water and pulled down her lip instinctively to protect a sensitive tooth. Her father saw the grimace and was disgusted. He ordered her to take a look at herself in a mirror and note how unattractive she was. She looked in the mirror. Then she flew back to him and said

"I look just like George Arliss, and he's going into my repertoire."

He did. They say George likes it.

It happened in a crowded downtown restaurant at noon. The speaker was a little timid man, just the type to have a spoiled and self-assertive child at home . . . and only one. He was asking for advice on how to operate a new-fangled top. Some relative had given Junior one for birthday.

"But I've got to find out how to work the pesky thing," he protested to his amused partner. "Confound it, when Junior found I couldn't tell him how to spin it, he lost the last vestige of respect for me. He barely tolerates me now!"

Fast Talkers Fooled On Long-Distance

Don't talk a "blue streak" over the telephone just because you are on an expensive long-distance line and want to get through in three minutes. Telephone operators say that mile-a-minute talkers are the ones who are always paying extra toll charges. They mumble and fumble words and have to repeat. Before they know it, the first three minutes are up. Average conversation is about 360 words in the allotted time.

By the way, it's no accident that telephone operators all say thur-ree for three . . . niyen for nine . . . fo-wer for four . . . double-yoo for w. It saves the company money because the girls are understood the first time.

Public Likes Steve Casey | Reminiscent Of Old Timers

By JACK CONWAY

I FIND THE public likes the grim, serious, dead pan Steve Casey who scored a one-fall victory over Dan O'Mahony. Casey did not call upon any theatricals as he won. Neither did he violate a single rule of the mat game.

MR. BOSTON

Casey gave a perfect exhibition of wrestling. He is a keen student of the grappling game, and was seldom open to be nailed by one of Danno's pet holds.

Casey does not possess as much color as O'Mahony, Sonnenberg, DeGlane or some of the other wrestlers who have blazed their way to the wrestling heights. He reminds me of oldtime wrestling greats like Stanislaus Zbyszko, Doc Roller and Alex Aberg. Steve has been schooled thoroughly in the fine points of wrestling, and in addition is blessed with tremendous strength.

Casey is the strongest man in the world. I believe those persons who saw him win over O'Mahony will agree with my opinion that Casey, if locked in a room with Joe Louis, would batter the heavyweight boxing champion to tiny bits.

In a single test of strength, O'Mahony would probably defeat Casey, but in a long drawn out battle of power such as a grappler gets in a big bout the "Crusher" has an edge.

Would Defeat Robert

IF CASEY WERE to clash with Yvon Robert tonight you could bet all the tea in Ireland that Steve would win. Robert isn't in sufficiently good condition to own [illegible] his own with the giant [illegible].

If Robert is well advised he will refuse to take on Casey until he has had four or five matches against fair opposition.

With many warring [illegible] in the wrestling game Casey will prove a trump card for Paul Bowser. The latter can [illegible] the various [illegible] champions to show [illegible] with Steve. I have an idea that most of the [illegible] champions will pass up a meeting with Casey.

Even though defeated, O'Mahony gave a splendid account of himself. He still makes a wide appeal every time he calls his "Irish Whip" into play. Casey, however, was too big and powerful to be nailed by this hold.

Dazzler Clark's attack on Yvon Robert seems to have lit the fires for a tussle between the Scotchman and the champion. Clark handled Maurice Robert with ease, and believes he also can defeat the latter's brother.

Robert would have a little chance of winning [illegible] Clark than he would be [illegible] against the giant [illegible].

For a man his size Casey did [illegible] as much as expected [illegible] he entered the ring at 22[illegible] pounds against 2[illegible] pounds for O'Mahony [illegible] than he was [illegible] night he defeated [illegible].

McCoy Fit for McCarthy

I FOUND MATCHMAKER "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club looking over the thoroughbreds at Suffolk Downs.

"I just came from the gym where I saw Al McCoy getting ready for Jack McCarthy," said Valenti. "McCoy looks as if he is in fine condition.

"In the early stages of his training McCoy had some difficulty with Eddie Malcolm, who is a top sparring partner. During the past couple of days McCoy has been handling Malcolm as easily as he does his other sparring partners."

McCarthy is [illegible] into condition for [illegible] meeting with the New England [illegible]. The Fox has heavyweight [illegible] worked with Jimmy Braddock while the latter was getting ready for his title tussle with Joe Louis and is in the best condition of his career.

Random Shot at Target

LOU FETTE continues to prove he is one of the best pitchers in the National League.. The Bees certainly have plenty of pitching strength in Fette, Turner and MacFayden . Give them a few extra base hitters and they will give any club in the league serious contention . The large crowds at the Bees-Cards double-header and the big gathering at Suffolk Downs was merely additional proof of the popularity of sports in Boston The first high point in the Suffolk Downs race meeting will take place on Saturday when a dozen of the leading thoroughbreds in the country will start in the $10,000 Yankee stakes. Jim Munroe says that in view of the fact it is a handicap, it is anybody's race.

HAGEN Defends BRITISH

London, July 22 (INS)—Sensibilities of British sportsmen and golfing fans, inflamed by statements of members of the American-Ryder Cup team in New York reflecting on the sportsmanship of British galleries, were still outraged today despite efforts of Walter Hagen to smooth things over.

Hagen said he personally had no complaint to make against the conduct of the British galleries at the international matches and advised the British to pay no attention to the charges of the American players.

A. J. Lacey, one of the British golfers who played against Ralph Guldahl, who accused the British of being "bad sports," retorted that Guldahl was a "difficult fellow."

WHA-WHA-WHAT'S THE MATTER NOW, PHIL? S-S-SOMETHING ELSE YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND?
OH, I UNNERSTAN' IT O.K. BUT THIS CARBURETOR'S DIFFERENT THAN THE ONE ON MY MODEL. THE FACTORY MUST HAVE MADE A MISTAKE. I DON'T SEE JUST HOW IT GOES BACK.
WHEN THAT DONKEY FINALLY GETS THROUGH TINKERING WITH THAT POOR GUY'S CLUNK, SOME GARAGE IS GOING TO HAVE TO TAKE IT AWAY IN BASKETS.
HE HAS A NATURAL AFFECTION FOR MACHINERY. HIS FATHER WAS A NUT.
GRADUALLY DISCOVERING JUST HOW MUCH YOUR BIG-HEARTED FRIEND REALLY KNOWS ABOUT AUTOMOBILES—THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

CIVICS Battle WOLFS

H. P. SEEKS 3D STRAIGHT WIN

The strain of the long, tedious battle is beginning to tell on the boys in the Boston Park League as they wind up their 11th week of league competition, with next week being the final week of play, prior to the starting of the playoffs.

The Brighton Civics, by their surprise victory over Jordans last night at Rogers Park, are now being considered a dangerous foe of Wolfs in their battle for the fourth position play-off berths in the east and west divisions.

CASEYS MEET SAINTS

Tonight's games will bring together [illegible] Casey A. A. [illegible] in their final meeting of the season. In the two games these clubs have played [illegible] was awarded the Saints [illegible] of the Caseys [illegible] dead [illegible] Tonight the [illegible] to whom [illegible] Jesse Brown [illegible] while the Saints will have [illegible].

At the Healy Playground, Roslindale, the first [illegible] Mass. [illegible] will meet the Roslindale Town Club in their final meeting of the season. Of the three games to date the Mass Sox have won two with the 'Townies' taking the third. The 'Townies' are out to annex [illegible] to even matters. McD[illegible] will toe the mound for Roslindale while the [illegible] of the Townies. Sam White will seek his third win over Roslindale.

Barney McDermott's Hennigan Club will attempt to take the Peres at Jefferson Playground, Roxbury, tonight in their fourth game with the records showing two wins for the Peres and a tie. Eldridge will be on the hill for the Hennigans, while Gus Rooke will hurl for the Peres.

SEEK THIRD STRAIGHT

Hank Garrity's Hyde Park twi club will attempt to continue their win streak against the Wolf club, whom they have beaten in their first two games. B[illegible] Sullivan needs this win for the playoff margin, which at present is none too large over their rivals, the Peres, and a great game should be provided for the fans of the Hyde Park sector. Hank Garrity will send Amby Murray to the mound after a win, while Bill Sullivan will use Jack McCarthy on the slab.

In the final clash of the night, the Maddens will attempt to annex their fifth victory at the expense of the Brighton Civics at Rogers Park, Brighton. The Maddens won three games the first week of the league back in May and have only won one game since. Incidentally, the Civics were among their few victims. Jim Lany's Brighton boys, on the other hand, handed Jordans a surprise lacing last night behind the pitching of Bobby Rich and expect to knock off the Roxbury boys with New York Giant and nipped the ease. "Fireball" McLaughlin will be sent out to stand the Maddens on their heads, while Tommy Madden, the noisy pet[illegible] of the loop, refuses to name his twirler for tonight's encounter, but promises to upset the fond hopes of the Civics.

Cubs Win Two

Philadelphia, July 22 (US)—Big Bill Lee and the left-handed Larry French helped the Chicago Cubs increase their league lead to two full games by pitching them to a double triumph over the Phillies, 4 to 1, and 6 to 0.

'Old Alex' Gives 'Rajah' Rib

Springfield, Ill., July 22 (INS)—Years ago, Rogers Hornsby's caustic tongue wounded the pride of Grover Cleveland Alexander, then his mound star. They seldom spoke after that.

When old Alex, who is spending his last baseball years managing a semi-pro team here, learned today of Hornsby's dismissal as pilot of the St. Louis Browns, he sent the Rajah the following wire:

"We are in need of second baseman for Denver (national semi-pro) tournament. Would you be interested. Advise. Best regards."

Trot Champions' Race Postponed

Old Orchard Beach, Me., July 22 (US)—The proposed Greyhound-Muscletone match of the trotting champions, scheduled for Good Time Park, Goshen, N. Y., August 10, hit a temporary snag when it was made known that the Italian horse could not race on that date.

In a cable to the Trotting Horse Club of America, sponsors of the match race, Givo Malani of Milan, Italy, owner of Muscletone, declared he finds it impossible to race Muscletone against the American champion on August 10.

AUSTEN LAKE

Rogers Hornsby Falls Victim of His Truth Telling Mania

AUSTEN LAKE

THE SAGA OF A QUAINT BASEBALL character has run out. One feels genuinely sorry to see that fate, in the form of dismissal from the St. Louis Browns, has snapped at Rogers Hornsby's heels again. For he was what might be termed a newspaperman's ball player, who had a strange mania for truth, however embarrassing, and could always be relied upon to make headlines.

Hornsby was fired, his discharge read, "for the best interests of the team," which is one of those tactful ambiguities which baseball owners use when they want to drop an employe down the drain while appearing to shield him from something dastardly. In fact this is the fifth time that Hornsby has been bounced from lucrative positions "for the best interests of the team." His crime was over indulgence in honest opinion and a genius for making enemies.

I have never encountered anybody in the baseball industry as boldly presumptuous in matters that were none of his business as Rogers. And though he had experienced a mess of domestic and commercial trouble in his prime, he remained the most aggressive tongue tosser in the game, who never hesitated to tell a ball player in blunt, Saxon English how completely punk he was and devoid of rudimentary intelligence.

The newspaper men liked Hornsby for the same reason that they abhored Bill Terry of the New York Giants. For Hornsby had a supreme contempt for ball players and a queer regard for journalists, which was just the opposite from Terry's attitude. Terry was a friend to his players but detested newsmen, who applied the prerogatives of their craft and detested him right back again.

It Started in 1926 at St. Louis

I HAVE HEARD MANY THEORIES AMONG [illegible] as to why Rogers [illegible] been avoided [illegible] Red Sox as [illegible] about Lou Gehrig's and Dizzy Dean's [illegible] just a [illegible]

Hornsby [illegible] people [illegible] psychopath [illegible] fate snapping [illegible] Champion Cardinals of 1926 [illegible] Frisch the present [illegible] hatred [illegible] couldn't [illegible] left guard [illegible] history [illegible] pretty fine figures [illegible] mainly because [illegible] desperate. Now Hornsby [illegible] wasn't always [illegible] ping [illegible]

Mr. McGraw said he wouldn't trade Frisch for Hornsby and $200,000 real money, which considering Mr. Sam Breadon's conspicuous frugality, seemed a safe enough boast. And Mr. Breadon said that he would trade Hornsby for Frisch and $200,000. So that there the matter stood with the citizens of St. Louis and New York jawing back and forth until one afternoon Hornsby had a slight money dispute with his owner and said he was operating his ball club on the scale of an orphanage and denying his hands a living wage. He was niggardly, lick-penny and tight, said Rogers, warming to his theme.

And about the same time Frisch was having boss trouble in New York, so that the upshot was a trade, Frisch for Hornsby.

* * *

McGraw Couldn't Stand the Truth

THAT WAS IN THE WINTER OF 1927 and about the time that McGraw was being irritated by some of the most picturesque inebriates of the game and getting pretty pernickity, sick and disillusioned.

So in the middle of the season, he let Hornsby have the club for a swing around the West and presently he was hearing by his espionage system that Rogers was blaming the failure of the team on the McGraw reform school method of running the details of the ball game from his murky cave and thus offending the pride of the players in whom he simultaneously demanded and rebuked dashing initiative. So McGraw hurriedly cured himself of what ailed him and presently announced a deal which sent Rogers to the Boston Braves.

* * *

Rogers May Have Had Glandular Trouble

It started a [illegible] season of backstage suspicion [illegible] conspiracies and [illegible] with most of the Braves players open [illegible] Hornsby whom they regarded as a pernicious busybody, devoured by ambition.

* * *

I HAVE ALWAYS TOYED WITH THE NOTION that Rogers' bluntness sprang from a queer truth psychosis and a sort of malignant honesty which might have traced to a glandular deficiency. His presumptuous honesty was plainly abnormal, and one wonders whether the department of his brain which generates the normal impulses of human guile and the mild perfidies called tact, or, in women, the art of dissembling, might not have been arrested during youthful development and left him with a childish conception of nude truth

For I have heard of pathological liars, and could name you a few. But it seems possible that if falsehood can trace to failure of the humor juices or a mental snarl, that there may be rare cases where the absence of essential fluids causes a truth telling mania like Hornsby's. Do you think it possible?

At any rate Rogers was no more popular with his men as manager of the Chicago Cubs than he was later with the St. Louis Browns, both of whom he branded as conspicuous busts. The players resented being called conspicuous busts and took to slurring their work, and hence becoming even more conspicuous busts.

Which is what the Browns' owners meant, I suppose, by dismissing Hornsby "for the best interests of the team." The team couldn't stand the truth.

getting my job. Some one had to become manager when I was dismissed. But Jim owes a lot to me. He was practically washed up as a player when I made the deal for him with Cincinnati last year.

"The club has to pay me what is coming to me. My contract was ironclad, yet Mr. Barnes called me into his office yesterday and handed me a letter informing me of my immediate release. Why, he didn't even give me the customary notice of ten days. A bush league player gets that much consideration."

Bottomley, appointed to succeed Hornsby as manager for the balance of the season, said that being a good soldier he could not turn down the offer of managing the Browns. He said he regretted Hornsby had to leave the club, [illegible] Hornsby's coach [illegible] was [illegible] succeeded by [illegible] manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the St. Paul club of the American Association.

Hornsby Declined Cash Settlement

St. Louis, July 22 (AP).—Although dismissed as manager of the St. Louis Browns, Rogers Hornsby said he had declined a $5000 offer of settlement. He declared he believes his contract should hold good to the end of the 1938 season. Hornsby, however, would not state if he plans to take the matter before commissioner of baseball, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

"I am waiting until I find out what the club is going to do about the contract," Hornsby stated.

"Mr. Barnes (President Don Barnes of the Browns) offered me $5000 after he informed me that I was released as manager but I did not accept anything."

Fabyan-Blank Duel at Longwood; Allison Must Step to Retire Bowl

Gold In Them Thar Collars

Bonnie Miller Blank, California tennis champion and eighth seeded in the women's singles for the Longwood bowl crown, faces her stiffest test today when she meets Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, top seeded. Her favorite song? "Bonnie Banks of Clyde," naturally.

Vet Meets Florida Star

Tennis of interesting promise is offered in the men's and women's singles quarter-final matches scheduled for today at Longwood Cricket Club.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, top-seeded, meets her sternest test in Mrs. Bonnie Miller Blank of Los Angeles, California women's champion for the past two years.

Mrs. Fabyan was hard pressed to turn back the serious challenge of Mrs. Takuko Hakano, Japan and Hawaiian champion in the third round, taking three sets to accomplish the victory.

Mrs. Blank, small and titian-haired, was at the same time vanquishing Grace Surber, one of New York's better players, in easy 6-1, 6-0 fashion.

HELEN PEDERSEN HURT

Gracyn Wheeler of Santa Monica, second seeded, and one of the two Californians left from the early large contingent, will meet her first hearty opposition from Mrs. Maynard M. Johnson of Brookline (the former Virginia Rice), state champion for 1937.

Mrs. Johnson turned in a masterful performance in eliminating Patsy Henry, intercollegiate champion from Los Angeles, in three hard fought sets.

Champion Steele Stops Williams

Washington, July 22 (US)—Freddie Steele of Seattle, middleweight champion of the world, won by a technical knockout over Charles "Hobo" Williams of Alexandria, Va., in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout here.

Referee Reynolds stopped the battle after Steele had sent Williams to the canvas for a count of eight. Williams staggered to his feet and was promptly floored again when Reynolds stepped in and gave Steele the decision.

Feller Wins First Game of Season

Wolves Howl Louder in St. Louis

By Associated Press

The wolves are different in St. Louis.

Anywhere else, when they start to howl, the chances are they'll get some bad players. But when they open up on the Browns, they wind up with the manager's scalp and don't ask why.

If anyone could have done a better job with the Browns than [illegible] Rogers Hornsby, he hasn't made his appearance in [illegible] better with the material he had [illegible].

The Chicago Cubs meanwhile stretched their National League lead to two full games over the [illegible] Giants by whipping the [illegible] in a twin bill. The most [illegible] part about it was that Lee and Larry French allowed 14 hits and one run in the [illegible] pint-sized ball orchard to win 4-1 and 6-0.

Although Sunny Jim Bottomley was the new manager of the Browns it was the same old ball club. So the Yankees trimmed them, as usual, 6-3.

Jimmy Foxx smashed out two homers for the second straight day to lead the Red Sox in a 10-2 walloping of the Detroit Tigers. Washington's Senators ended a 12 game "win-less" run by topping the White Sox. The Cleveland Indians just managed to nose out the Athletics at the end of a twin bill 9-8 and 8-7.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY
LONDON MARKET, UPSTART, OILER BOY

7 London Market, F. Athanas'n	70½	7-2
4 Upstart, F. Boone	58	7-2
1 Oiler Boy, T. Baird	60	6-1
8 Ohio Glee, J. Prevatt	61	8-1
1 Double Up, W. Bryant	58	8-1
3 Boom Town, Jess Williams	61	8-1
6 Odd Boy, J. F. Highhouse	62½	10-1
8 Jack Rco Ken, F. Spencer	62½	10-1

LONDON MARKET won its last three handily and should continue the string here. UPSTART breaks fast and will probably be the chief contender. OILER BOY, roughed in its last, rates a piece of the money.

SEVENTH RACE—3-16 MILE
HE ROLL, RIO GRAND, BADGER'S BEST

4 He Roll, J. Boone	61	7-2
3 Rio Grand, Jess Williams	68	4-1
6 Badger's Best, N'gansett Ken	60	4-1

7 Jovial Joker, D. Stolz	60½	8-1
2 Space, J. Ayotte	68	8-1
5 Carl Ed, F. Athanasow	64	10-1

The [illegible] has yet to show his true form [illegible] but from this box the story should be different. RIO GRAND is at top right now and figures close up. BADGER'S BEST, winner of its last, figures to be in the money.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
LAST OUT, MIKE SLATS, AMY MAY

1 Last Out, F. Athanasow	68½	5-2
7 Mike Slats, J. Boone	61	7-2
8 Amy May, F. Boone	60	6-1
5 Princess Breeze, B. Br'ze Ken	62	6-1
2 Royal Earl, F. Falk	66½	7-1
3 Black Bat, J. Fortier	61	8-1
4 Mr. Tickler, N'gansett Ken	60	8-1
6 Bunt Laddie, M. Bagwell	67	10-1

LAST OUT has all the class here and should prove a handy winner, with MIKE SLATS just off the schooling [illegible] the contender's role. AMY MAY has the early foot to take a long lead and be [illegible] for the balance.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
(Gold Collar Championship)
SWAMP ANGEL, WAGTAIL, CAULD KAIL

6 Swamp Angel, Standard Ken.	58	2-1
7 Wagtail, S. Chambers	59	3-1
1 Cauld Kail, M. Sparks	67	4-1
8 Glouna Louna, N'gansett Ken	62	7-1

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright 1937 by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved. Distributed by Universal Service.)

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 22. In the heart of the downtown section of Saratoga Springs there is a little district that has a distinctly old world atmosphere. It is a district that has been taken over almost entirely by the chosen people.

Damon Runyon

The narrow streets are lined with kosher restaurants and boarding houses. The signs are [illegible] in Yiddish. Of an evening the porches of the buildings which are mostly of frame and quite ancient are crowded with men and women [illegible] conversation is [illegible] their own language.

They are [illegible] men and [illegible] women, the [illegible] New York [illegible] came from far away [illegible]. They are sent here by their grown children back in the teeming cities to take the waters and [illegible] the peace and [illegible] of this little town.

Later [illegible] when the [illegible] the children probably will [illegible] them for a vacation [illegible].

ESTEEMED VISITORS

Through the streets of [illegible] district which has no definite designation wander long-bearded men in [illegible] caps and [illegible] that seem strange [illegible] in the [illegible] sunshine.

A [illegible] old resident [illegible] has been taken over as a place of worship. These old people are gentle and quiet and mind their own business and are highly esteemed as visitors by the Saratogians.

There are other and more pretentious kosher establishments in other sections of the city, notably some big hotels and boarding houses on Broadway, the principal thoroughfare of Saratoga, but the guests seem younger and more modern and fresher than the folks of the [illegible].

Probably they [illegible] know as much about food [illegible]. There is a tiny restaurant [illegible] which serves a kosher meal that is perhaps the last word [illegible] plain or fancy eating.

We shudder at the thought of the excitement [illegible] being bruited about when the race crowd arrives. The food is really too good for mere Gentiles.

EVENING RITUAL

You see the population of the [illegible] district and most of [illegible] population of Saratoga [illegible] around the mineral wells in [illegible] evening [illegible] glasses in hand.

They drink the water which is said to be good for what ails them and gossip until it is time to go home. Hordes of children play underfoot. The nightly drinking is a picturesque scene in Saratoga.

There is one mineral well here that is said to be excellent for eye troubles. It has been suggested that the placing judges at the race track be required to visit this well and use the water freely every day before proceeding to their duties, but since the coming of the camera eye the idea will probably be abandoned.

The chosen people are smarter about a lot of things than the Gentiles, and one of these things is the matter of health.

In the old world, mineral waters have been highly esteemed for certain indispositions of the flesh down through the ages. Our wealthy American Gentiles have been patronizing the famous "bads" or watering places of Europe for generations though it is said that no one of these European watering places [illegible] Saratoga.

REDISCOVERED SARATOGA

[illegible] coming here and [illegible] for the war.

The [illegible] that [illegible] been [illegible].

Presently the State of New York rediscovered Saratoga [illegible] a watering place [illegible] spent here [illegible] elaborate [illegible] a treatment [illegible].

[illegible] what might be called [illegible] ration of Saratoga.

APPRECIATE GOOD THING

The reason you find so many of them here today is because they know an appreciated good thing when they saw it. Now [illegible] are coming back to Saratoga in increasing numbers [illegible] the waters they had [illegible] Europe.

It [illegible] and the [illegible] the [illegible]. We cannot speak for alleged [illegible] qualities of the water but we have long ago gained that [illegible] the children of Israel [illegible] thing is all right [illegible] idea to follow their play.

"We were the only class of people who served in the war who are not pensionable," said Dr. Ely. "The contract nurses were pensioned (15 years ago), but in spite of our pleas we have never been. CHAPTER 23

They hadn't noticed an alert young man who had stepped in and was listening. He came forward now to Peters.

"What's up, Serge?" he asked.

"Missing girl, Tim has the description; she was a guest at the hotel—"

"Who is this?" Freddy asked.

"Reporter."

"Listen," Osborne said, "can't you keep this out—"

"Sorry," said the reporter, and hurried out to get the description in order to call San Francisco with the first tip and then get busy.

"Now what can I do?" Freddy asked Peters.

"Nothing. I'll call Mr. Osborne when we get any information."

They went out.

"Well, it looks as though you had started to bust things wide open, Mr. Matthews," Osborne said.

REPORTER GETS BUSY

"I'll bust 'em wider, if I don't find Susie," Freddy wailed.

The reporter came back and [illegible] more information from Peters and then went to the hotel unbeknown to Osborne and got still more information including the slightly incorrect information that the missing Miss Rogers was the fiancee of Freddy Matthews, the well known young novelist.

Freddy paced the west veranda of the hotel, nervously lighting and tossing away cigarettes. The sight now and then of the members of the patrol scouting about here and there added to his nervousness.

The flashlights here and there, car headlights turned to the beach and headlights on motorcycles all added to the confusion as well as the radio announcements [illegible] describing the missing Miss Rogers.

The reporter telephoned his San Francisco office his added information adding that all roads were being watched and all cars stopped for examination.

[illegible] Freddy Matthews had no sleep [illegible] worry that was fast growing [illegible] fright.

A [illegible] the day [illegible] Margery went to the bathroom and slapped cold water [illegible] face then [illegible] the typewriter for a final spurt. A stack of neatly typed pages testified [illegible] Margery was nearing the final pages of the last chapter. For thirty minutes she hammered away, read over the last page and with a sigh of relief and pride typed THE END.

She added this to the pile after reading for corrections, placed the manuscript carefully on the dresser beside her discarded wig and spectacles, got a drink of water and [illegible] utterly weary [illegible] lay on the top of the bed and was asleep at once.

Up in San Francisco the first morning editions of the newspapers were coming out, and the feature story was about a missing San Francisco beauty, Miss Susie Rogers, who was mysteriously missing from Monterey. Foul play was feared—the usual [illegible] for that sort of a news story.

CRANKS ACTIVE

At this time Freddy was making Manager Osborne's office his headquarters. All sorts of telephone calls were coming in, some from people who thought they had seen the missing blonde and some from cranks and near-cranks.

People from Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, Alturas, San Luis Obispo, and many other points telephoned in to announce that they had positively seen the missing Miss Rogers.

One clairvoyant tried to convince Freddy that the missing girl was on a steamer bound for Honolulu. Someone wanted to sign the missing girl for a movie contract if she was located.

All of this helped to make Freddy Matthews more of a wreck than ever.

Meanwhile the real Susie Rogers, Margery's roommate, was peacefully sleeping in their San Francisco apartment only to finally be awakened by a steady ringing of her apartment door bell. When she was finally aroused she wrapped a kimona about her and hurried out, confident that it was Margery, who had grabbed a midnight bus to come home.

When she opened the door there stood her boy friend Jake Eggdall, a newspaper in his hand. He seemed to be white and trembling.

"Gee—Oh gee, Baby—then you are all right? Then you ain't lost —you didn't—"

"What's the matter with you, Jake Eggdall? Drunk?" Susie cried.

"Of course not — Gee, when I got up early an' lamped th' noospapers—looka this?"

"For heaven's sake, come in. It's dark in the foyer. What's eatin' you, Jake?"

SUSIE GETS NEWS

"Lissen, Baby, you're supposed to be missin'. Gee, was I scared—"

"Let me read this."

Susie scanned the headlines and the opening paragraph.

"You're dumb, Jake, this Susie Rogers is a beauty, an' that lets me out."

"Then it's some dame usin' your name, huh? Gee, but I'm glad—"

Wife Borrowed to Keep Her Family Afloat During Trying Period

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Women will endure many hardships to keep their family afloat.

Here is a husband who complains that his wife is borrowing from one of her old business acquaintances in order to provide necessities of life for the household.

We would advise this husband to stand pat at the present and use all his efforts in securing a position. In this way he will take the pressure off his wife. Here is his letter.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am full of misgivings, and though we are living more comfortably than we have for some time I'd rather go back to the old way of getting up from the table hungry. After I had lost a position I had had for 12 years we borrowed on our life insurance, sold what silver we had and parted with some good furniture, to keep us going till I could get another job. But as I could get no recommendation from my old firm, that was impossible.

My wife tried to give piano lessons but she hadn't played for years and was never a professional. Meals became scanty and we sent our children into the country to be with my wife's mother.

Suddenly more food began to appear on the table and things were generally more comfortable. My wife even bought me a pair of shoes and other things.

I asked her how she came by this money and she told me very frankly that she borrowed it from some of my old business acquaintances and would pay it back as soon as either of us got employment.

She insists there is absolutely nothing wrong but I fear that things might not stop there. Sometimes I think of leaving home and tramping the roads looking for employment.

A FAILURE

Impulses to run away, my dear man, are just the desire to escape ourselves and unfortunately when we go we drag our burdens along plus the extra one of uncertainty.

See if you can get any work through your church or political affiliations. Don't give up the ship.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Against my wishes my daughter is marrying a man who, I'm afraid will never be able to take proper care of her. He seems to have no idea of what people require when they are going to set up housekeeping and my daughter is almost as bad. I have given her a handsome wedding dress and her trousseau and I expect to give her a nice wedding supper. But I just can't buy all the things they need for their apartment.

I thought of giving them a shower but someone told me it would not be proper. Is that so?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR FRIEND:

It is unusual for a mother or close member of a bride's family to give a shower, as, of course it is an invitation to bring presents. But one of your daughter's girl friends could give the shower quite properly, and you might put out a few feelers in that direction.

Bridge

A Guess—Plus

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

One of the essential differences between the expert and the merely good player is the former's understanding of player psychology.

The good player is "put on the spot" dozens of times a year without ever profiting from it. The expert is also embarrassed but remembers.

South dealer
Neither side vulnerable

North: ♠ 9 7 5; ♡ A; ◇ K J 8 6 5 4; ♣ Q 7 5
West: ♠ J 6 8; ♡ J 10 9 8 5; ◇ Q 9 2; ♣ 10 6 3 2
East: ♠ 7 4 6; ♡ 8 6 4 3 2; ◇ A 10; ♣ J 9 4
South: ♠ A K Q 3 2; ♡ K Q 7; ◇ 7 3; ♣ A K 8

The bidding

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's bid of five spades is noteworthy. He realized that if South were willing to play for game opposite a minimum two diamond response, North's actual hand would furnish some play for a slam. He could not realize that his singleton Ace of hearts would furnish no ruffing value. South naturally accepted the slam.

West opened the Jack of hearts and declarer summed up the resources of the combined hands in a few seconds. It did not take him long to decide that there was no way of avoiding the diamond guess.

The average good player would cash about four rounds of trumps and all of the hearts and all of the clubs before touching the diamonds. But this would make it transparent to the opponents that South had a diamond guess. They would give him no information and South would still have an excellent chance of guessing wrong as to which player had the Ace and which the Queen.

But South was an expert and knew how to put West on the spot. Taking the first trick with the Ace of hearts he led a trump to his own hand. Without hesitation, a low diamond was his next play. South realized that if West had the Ace he would take it at once, fearing a singleton in declarer's hand.

Therefore, when West calmly played a low diamond, South read him for the Queen and finessed dummy's Jack of diamonds. Thus a little elementary psychology relieved the expert declarer of a painful guess.

Correct English

SELF-CONSCIOUS about your speech when somebody new comes along? Afraid the English you use with your own crowd makes a bad impression on unaccustomed ears?

Of course it will unless your speech is the sort people of taste and education use.

"I COULDN'T HARDLY see you ACROST the street in ALL OF this sun." Betty says to this new man she met at the club dance.

Then she blushes—remembers the "t" she always adds to across isn't correct. It's could hardly, not couldn't hardly.

But it's easy with a list of corrections to errors you commonly make to be self-assured. Say "this is different from that," not different than or different to. Say "the fire is over," not "over with." Use the reverse of the common reverse [illegible] "where's he," not "where's he at."

Observing niceties of speech wins approval of people you'd like to know. Our 40-page booklet COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH gives convenient right and wrong list.

Send 15c for our booklet, COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Prize Lemon Filling

We finally obtained that recipe for the lemon filling between crackers from Mrs. Weber at Wilton, New Hampshire.

She says that she has been so busy serving those Southern chicken dinners at Revere Tavern that she just couldn't find time to write out the recipe for us.

Incidentally we think this sweet sour filling for these crisp butter crackers is just the thing to have on hand for a snack or tea.

Mrs. Weber keeps the filling on hand and has found that it makes a hit with her guests. Another of her hits is brown sugar pie made in the southern manner. And it certainly does top off that chicken dinner.

REVERE TAVERN LEMON FILLING BETWEEN BINGS CRACKERS

- 1 whole egg
- 1 cup sugar
- 2½ teaspoons flour
- Juice of 2 lemons
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1 teaspoon butter
- ¾ cup chopped raisins

Beat sugar and egg together then add flour, lemon juice and lemon gratings. Add butter and cook until thick enough to spread when cool. Immediately upon removing from fire add raisins. Makes 2 cups.

When [illegible] spread between crackers for a sandwich type of filled biscuit.

PECAN PIE

- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup light or dark corn syrup (dark preferable for color)
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ½ to 1 cup pecan meats, coarsely chopped
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix the above ingredients adding the nutmeats last. Pour into a standard size pie pan or into an 8 inch square shallow pan, which has been lined with pastry. Place in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) for about 10 minutes, then reduce the oven to a low heat (350 deg. F.) and bake until the filling is firm. This will require about 30 minutes. After about 40 minutes insert a silver knife blade into the filling; the pie is done when the knife comes out clean. Continue baking until this test proves successful. The filling will appear quite thin when first poured into the pan but puffs up during the baking; when done the top will be firm and crusty with pecans showing. Cool slowly. Since this is a rich pie serve it in small pieces.

BANANAS AU GRATIN

- ¼ cup grated dry American cheese.
- 1 tablespoonful dry bread or cracker crumbs.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 6 bananas, peeled and cut crosswise into halves.
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Mix together the grated cheese, crumbs and salt. Roll bananas in lemon juice and then in cheese mixture. Place in well-greased baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until bananas are done. Serve hot. Six large servings.

CHEESE PUFFS

(The perfect accompaniment for a refreshing drink.)

- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites
- 4 tablespoons grated American cheese
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 12 unsweetened crackers
- Paprika

Add the salt to the egg whites and beat with a hand beater or and electric beater at high speed until stiff, but not dry. Fold in the cheese and cayenne pepper and heap on crackers. Bake in a slow oven of 300 deg. F. for 15 minutes or until brown. Garnish with paprika. Makes 12 puffs.

Radioland Reflections

By M. E. M.

(While N. F. T. is vacationing)

IT'S our guess that the air waves will have to be plenty tight this evening to hold up under the strain of statesmen's orations, Wagner's operas and writers' politics.

Tonight marks the most formal dedication of the most ultra-modern studios of the National Broadcasting Company in Washington, D. C., at 11:15 o'clock (WNAC, WBZ).

The ceremonies open in Washington with announcements and a selection by the United States Marine Band. The speakers include Postmaster General James A. Farley, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana; Melvin C. Hazen, commissioner of the District of Columbia; Eugene O. Sykes, member of the Federal Communications Commission, and Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC.

If you were awed a few years back by the squeaks that came out of those ear phones you had screwed around your head, just [illegible] eyes this way.

There are seven studios in NBC's new headquarters. The technicians call them "floating studios" but to you and me, they are seven isolated units, each hanging independently in the framework of the building proper. Each unit is supported on soundproof and shockproof mountings. Washington is equipped for television.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

As if this weren't enough for one radio-day, the Robin Hood Dell orchestra supplies the dig to all this dignity at 8:30 p. m. (WBZ) in an all-Wagnerian program.

Under the direction of Vladimir Golschmann, regular conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, the orchestra [illegible] from five of the German master's operas.

The final furrow on NBC's intelligent, but never weary brow is an open forum on the Summer Town Meeting of the Air broadcast this evening at 9:30 p. m. (WBZ).

James G. McDonald, editor, writer and Commodore Luigi Villari, Italian political writer, are [illegible] the question "Will Collective Action Maintain World Peace?" Discussion among the audience follows.

FUN FEST

It would appear that Bob Burns is in good company this Thursday night. A less nonchalant fellow might feel as out of place here as [illegible] from a snake but never the sake of the Ozarks.

Armed with a fresh supply of startling yarns about his relatives he bravely carries on the Music Hall program at 10:00 p. m. (WNAC).

Olivia De Havilland and Edmund Lowe, both stars of Hollywood, and Helen Jepson, Metropolitan Opera soprano, add to Bob's program [illegible].

MODERN MIRACLE

He's blind and he's deaf. Yet he sees and hears. This modern miracle man is Stephen D. Cartwright of Lincoln, Nebraska, whom Floyd Gibbons interviews this evening on his "Your True Adventures" program at 10:00 p. m. (WEEI).

Jessica Dragonette [illegible] the life drama of Stephen Cartwright with Floyd Gibbons. It was she who inspired him to overcome his physical difficulties when he heard her sing "Alice Blue Gown," one of his favorite songs.

Service at Table For Sit-Downers

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We telephoned a carpenter yesterday to fix the window screens. He said, "I'll come around, but only to picket your place."

We asked him why, and he explained he was on a strike.

We wanted to know if our house was unfair to organized labor. He said, "It will be when I get there."

That's the way it stands now. The next time we have a sit-down strike it will be in a place with table service.

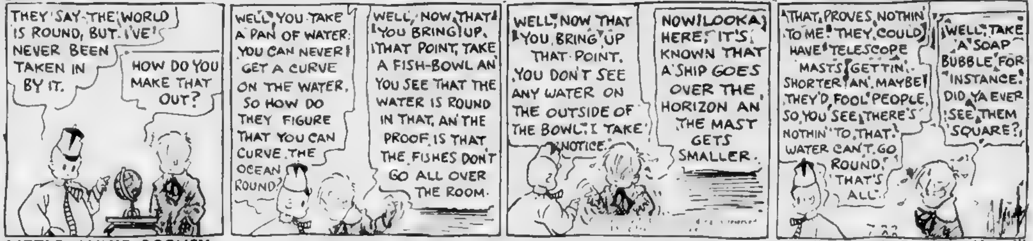
That Clinches the Argument



THEY SAY THE WORLD IS ROUND, BUT I'VE NEVER BEEN TAKEN IN BY IT.
HOW DO YOU MAKE THAT OUT?
WELL, YOU TAKE A PAN OF WATER. YOU CAN NEVER GET A CURVE ON THE WATER, SO HOW DO THEY FIGURE THAT YOU CAN CURVE THE OCEAN ROUND?
WELL, NOW THAT YOU BRING UP THAT POINT, TAKE A FISH-BOWL AN' YOU SEE THAT THE WATER IS ROUND IN THAT, AN' THE PROOF IS THAT THE FISHES DON'T GO ALL OVER THE ROOM.
WELL, NOW THAT YOU BRING UP THAT POINT, YOU DON'T SEE ANY WATER ON THE OUTSIDE OF THE BOWL, I TAKE NOTICE.
NOW! LOOKA HERE, IT'S KNOWN THAT A SHIP GOES OVER THE HORIZON AN THE MAST GETS SMALLER.
THAT PROVES NOTHIN' TO ME. THEY COULD HAVE TELESCOPE MASTS GETTIN' SHORTER AN' MAYBE THEY'D FOOL PEOPLE, SO YOU SEE THERE'S NOTHIN' TO THAT. WATER CAN'T GO ROUND, THAT'S ALL.
WELL, TAKE A SOAP BUBBLE FOR INSTANCE. DID YA EVER SEE THEM SQUARE?

AS BITTERNESS TURNS TO LOVE

For the greater part of "Saratoga," M-G-M's race track classic which comes to Loew's State and Orpheum tomorrow, Jean Harlow hated Clark Gable, but, as the film progresses, this hate is turned to love and the above scene proves it. This film was practically completed when death took the beautiful Jean

Fields at Scollay, Modern

W. C. Fields who, in a half-dozen or so broadcasts, has become America's favorite radio humorist, is to be the big 'ure at the Scollay and Modern theaters, beginning tomorrow, when one of his old and biggest hits, "Poppy," is being brought back to the screen.

Rochelle Hudson

Fields' adventures as a circus man with a lovely, young daughter, Rochelle Hudson, provide the theme of "Poppy."

Medicine-man in a small carnival in a mid-western town, Fields and Rochelle are eking out an existence placidly until Fields hears of an estate in the town which is awaiting the appearance of its young girl owner. Without telling Rochelle he schemes to get her recognized as the heiress, succeeds but later discovers she is the rightful owner. After he has her settled in the new home he takes to the road again in search of new shows.

The companion feature on this program will be "Midnight Madonna," with Warren William, Mady Correll and Kitty Clancy. As an extra attraction, both theaters will offer W. C. Fields' radio pal, Charlie McCarthy, in "Double Talk" with Edgar Bergen.

Berry Quits Post In Labor League

Washington, July 22 (INS)—Senator George L. Berry (D.) of Tennessee has resigned as president of Labor's Non-Partisan League, which he helped to organize to throw the labor vote for President Roosevelt's re-election.

He said today he resigned because he did not think it "proper" for him to continue as head of the league while serving in the Senae. He was appointed to the Senate several months ago to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator N. L. Bachman.

Ameche Gets Lead In Sonja's Film

By HARRIET PARSONS

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, July 22—Don Ameche will romance Sonja Henie in "Bread, Butter and Rhythm," which goes into production in October when the little skating star returns from her visit to Norway.

Roy Del Ruth, who has just completed "Broadway Melody of 1938" for Metro, will direct. Del Ruth, on loan-out to M-G-M, was also slated to meg "Rosalie" for that studio but had to bow out in order to report back to Twent-Cent-Fox for the Henie opus.

Harriet Parsons

Ameche, who gets better and better with each picture, had the romantic lead in Sonja's debut film, "One In A Million," and apparently the combination clicked with the fans.

Next boost up the ladder for Hollywood's current wonder-boy, Wayne Morris, will probably be a star spot in "Brother Rat," smash stage hit which Hal Wallis will produce for Warner Brothers. Story has to do with life in a military academy and will be the third appearance in uniform for Wayne, who sported a bell hop outfit in "Kid Galahad" and a sailor suit in "Submarine D-1." The Hollywood gals think he looks O. K. in civvies, too.

Hope Hampton's first starring musical for Universal will be "She Shall Have Music," an original by Frances Noyes Hart and Charles Grayson. Tried to obtain Allan Jones for the male lead but M-G-M refused to lend him, on account of after his grand work in "Firefly" he'll be kept plenty busy on the home lot.

A red-hot rumor has it that a group of New York bankers just okayed a $6,000,000 loan to Sam Goldwyn so he can buy up the Pickford-Fairbanks-Chaplin interests in United Artists. L. O. P. recently bannerlined the scoop that Goldwyn and Alexander Korda would purchase control of the pioneer producing company from the three great luminaries of silent days. Now, however, it looks as if Goldwyn is going to swing the goal alone—although Korda will, of course, continue to release through U. A.

Gary Cooper's commitment with Emanuel Cohen, which is for him to start work on "What Ho" September 1, may either be cancelled by mutual consent or postponed until a future date. Cause is story trouble. Script of "What Ho" has been nixed and it's unlikely a satisfactory substitute can be found by deadline time.

Meanwhile we hear negotiations are on for Cooper to portray Orville Wright in "The Wright Brothers" at Warners when he completes "Marco Polo." Gary has read the script and is eager to do it.

A line or two: The mountain is coming to Mohamet with a vengeance these days. On the heels of the announcement that New York's Theater Guild will try out two shows in L. A. next summer comes the rumor that the Metropolitan Opera Company may play a two weeks engagement here this winter. Earl Lewis, Met treasurer, is here looking over the field . . . Benjamin Glazer, Paramount producer for lo these many years, may go over to Warners with his own unit—a La Mervyn Le Roy. Pending deal calls for straight five-year contract.

Snapshots of Hollywood

JOE PENNER nursing a colorful case of poison ivy acquired while retrieving a golf ball at Del Monte; CHARLIE CHAPLIN, HENRY BERGMAN and PAULETTE GODDARD (in a hat the like of which has never been seen on land or sea) dining at Sardi's; BOB TAYLOR, driving past the Brown Derby today, spotted MARY BRIAN in dark glasses slipping past the autograph hounds and fixed everything up dandy by yelling "there goes MARY BRIAN." COUNTESS DOROTHY DE FRASSO, ill for a week with neuritis, being cheered up by daily visits from CARY GRANT; HUNT STROMBERG partying friends at the Troc after the "Firefly" preview with NORMA SHEARER, ALLAN JONES and IRENE HERVEY, SPENCER TRACY and others among those present; JANE WITHERS bringing three lizards, six turtles and a Chinese silkie kitten (whatever that is) back from her vacation. That's all today. I'll be worse tomorrow!

'Mountain Music' At Uptown

Uptown's screen bill offers "Mountain Music," co-starring Bob Burns and Martha Raye, favorite Hub comics, in their first feature picture, starting tomorrow.

The companion feature is "You Can't Beat Love," with Preston Foster and Joan Fontaine.

Construction Awards In Sharp Drop

New York, July 22 (AP)—Engineering construction awards dropped sharply for the week ended July 20 to the lowest figure recorded for the year, Engineering News-Record reported today.

The total of $30,695,000 compared with $59,437,000 the preceding week and $50,992,000 a year ago. The decrease was said to be due to fewer large projects going under contract and a slight drop in the number of projects.

Eaton Mfg.

Eaton Manufacturing Co. declared a dividend of 75 cents, payable August 16 to stock of record August 2.

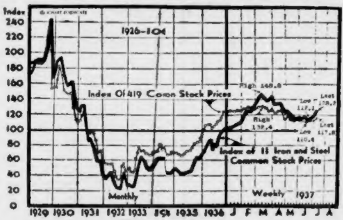
Iron, SteelStocks Rise



Recovery in a group of 11 iron and steel stocks in the first July week was sharper than the rise in the general stock market, this chart shows. As indexed by Standard Statistics, with 1926 average prices equal to 100, the iron and steel stocks gained 7.6 per cent in value in the first week in July while the general stock index rose 3.5 per cent.

Plagued by severe strike troubles during the past few months, the steel group, particularly "independent" units, suffered sharp production losses. From the March highs to the June lows the steel index lost fully one-quarter of its average value. During the same period the general stock market declined 16½ per cent in value.

The recent sharp recovery in steel stocks coincided with Washington reports that President Roosevelt had warned the CIO against "extremist" measures.

R. H. Macy to Offer Additional Common

Directors of R. H. Macy & Co. have authorized the filing of registration statement with the SEC to enable the corporation to offer its common stockholders additional stock in ratio of one new share for each ten shares now held. Price at which this stock will be offered will be specified at a later date.

"The directors believe," a statement issued by the company says, "that it is prudent to raise additional capital at this time to provide against contingencies calling for greater working capital and to provide against reductions of its cash funds which, assuming a reasonable dividend policy, it expects would otherwise take place over the next year due to increased working capital requirements resulting from a general expansion of the corporation's volume of business.

"Unsubscribed shares would be purchased by an underwriting group which, it is understood, Lehman Bros. will head."

Graton & Knight Co.

Burton Cary was elected a director of Graton & Knight Co.

Drafting Rules to Limit Common Trusts

Safeguards to prevent common trusts managed by banks from developing into a competitor of investment trusts will be drafted into the forthcoming regulations of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System covering commingled trust funds.

The draft of the regulations will not be ready until October 1. They will be made public on or about that date, according to present plans, but will not become effective until later. In the interim banks and other interested parties will be invited to make suggestions as to the final form of the regulations.

The regulations are being drafted under the Revenue Act of 1936 which provided that common trusts, but not the beneficiaries thereof, would be exempt from income taxes if the trusts conform with regulations laid down by the board. Common trusts are small trusts, the funds of which are pooled for investment purposes in order to get a better diversification, better yield and less risk.

FORBES on Sugar PLANS

URGES TO PUT U. S. FIRST

By B. C. FORBES

The sugar bowl appears on the tables of 130,000,000 Americans at almost every meal. Anything the government does affecting the price of sugar is, therefore, of national interest. Sugar legislation is now before Congress.

The sugar problem has as many angles as a centipede has legs. The layman who attempts to study them finds himself more or less bewildered.

There are, however, several salient considerations which should guide our lawmakers in formulating legislation covering the domestic production, the importation of raw and refined sugar, and domestic refining.

Authorities state that there are "100,000 beet farmers located in 21 American states, many beet factories located near these farms, cane growers and mills in Louisiana and Florida, and raw cane sugar refiners in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas and California."

Under the New Deal Sugar Act of 1934, the Secretary of Agriculture was empowered to estimate our annual sugar requirements and to divide them among the various producing areas, namely, continental United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and Cuba—little sugar is imported from any other sources.

A tax of some $65,000,000 annually was imposed and paid back to beet and cane producers here, in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Philippines. Simultaneously, the duty on Cuban raw sugar was reduced and Cuba was awarded a more generous share of the market than theretofor.

* * *

What was the effect?

"The price of raw sugar was raised, the incomes of beet and cane farmers at home and in our island possessions was increased, and Cuba was greatly benefitted," according to an authoritative statement.

But home cane refiners, it is declared, did not receive any financial benefits. Last year their income was 7 per cent below that of the four years before the act. They received no tariff protection against imported refined sugar from Cuba, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Analyzing the compromise bill now before Congress, the same authority states that it "would provide a processing tax of roughly $67,000,000, and, through limiting quotas, would enhance the domestic price over the world price. The cost of protection to the consumer would be $320,000,000, divided thus:

Beet area	$90,000,000
Continental cane area	24,000,000
Hawaii	52,000,000
Puerto Rico	43,000,000
Philippine Islands	54,000,000
Cuba	55,000,000

"Home cane refiners would receive no share of this subsidy.... Home beet factories are restricted by a quota of 1,550,000 tons and cane sugar refiners to a quota of approximately 4,200,000 tons, permitting them to operate at only 65 per cent of capacity, whereas Hawaiian and Puerto Rican refiners could operate at nearly 100 per cent capacity."

* * *

Consumers surely should receive consideration.

Next, the interests of home sugar growers should receive attention.

Manifestly, the well-being of our own insular possessions should come ahead of Cuba, although Cuba's welfare should not be overlooked.

Congress, according to all economic reasoning, should do nothing to stimulate the investment of capital elsewhere to refine sugar when the necessary plants and the necessary labor have already been provided within our own borders.

Refiners complain that the building of refineries beyond our shores is being encouraged, to the detriment of our home industry and workers.

Chief consideration obviously should be accorded expansion of home sugar growing and home refining. Why do anything to restrict providing employment in the raising and refining of sugar here when employment is so urgently needed?

Goodall Worsted $4 Dividend

Goodall Worsted Co. has declared a year-end dividend of $4 per share, payable July 29 to stock of record July 22. The company having earlier paid a total of $4 per share, the total for the fiscal year to end on July 31 is $8 per share.

The present substantial dividend tends to confirm expectations that, in view of the past year's substantial increase in sales, earnings in the current year will compare well with those of $11.58 per share in the 1935-36 fiscal period.

Western Electric Sales Up 48 P. C.

Western Electric Company reports sales for first six months this year amounted to $97,353,000, an increase of 48 per cent over the 65,651,000 in like period of 1936.

Business Is Quiet In N. E.

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Weekly reviews of New England business conditions coming to hand are typical of the summer season. In almost all directions quiet prevails and a noticeable falling off in consumer buying reflects a letdown in industrial operations, due to a paucity of new business.

Actual conditions are not mirrored in reports from the big centers, where department store sales are fairly well maintained. In mill towns, for instance, Dun & Bradstreet find retail trade slow and in metropolitan centers the sale of cheaper classes of goods has been disappointing. While wholesale distribution of goods is regarded as satisfactory for this time of year, thus enabling some manufacturing lines to keep going forward, it is worth noting that present levels were reached on the good orders volume of earlier this year. Actual new business is barely enough to sustain production. And staple lines are not the only ones feeling the effects of consumer lethargy, for the Dun & Bradstreet report says there has been a decided falling off in the purchasing of luxury lines and real estate continues slow.

* * *

Many followers of the stock market are prone to place a great deal of emphasis on quality at times such as the present. They feel that a reversal of a downward trend cannot be accomplished unless the first line investment issues are to the forefront. We concur and think it pertinent that daily lists of the most active issues contain a goodly number of the best stocks. In fact, this week the 20 most active stocks on the big board have not contained as many as five issues selling under $20 on any one day. Leadership, it seems, is lodged in the safest places.

* * *

It is such little noted developments as the above that encourage us to believe the current upswing has plenty of "backbone." Accordingly, when, as and if declines set in they should be regarded as nominal affairs and as such used for the further accumulation of stocks, particularly god stocks. Go for the best now, there is plenty of time for the secondary issues to have their day.

* * *

Although we are of a bullish mind insofar as the long term outlook is concerned and counsel intermediate trend traders and investors to maintain positions we do not think it wise to continue buying around the prices now ruling. In general the list is at or close to the top of the recovery. It has been an almost straight line affair that caused the cautious and slow buyer plenty of grief. Either partially or wholly left out when the rise started such individuals were faced with the necessity of buying "at the market," which meant reaching for stocks in a thin market.

* * *

Under the conditions outlined above it is hardly any wonder that prices vaulted over normal technical resistance levels in hurried fashion. But while the performance is heartening in retrospect it carries no assurance of permanence. The records show that markets never have moved up without interruption and those now desirous of buying stocks should comfort themselves and strengthen their determination to wait with such thoughts no matter how tempting things look while prices round out a temporary top.

* * *

Notebook: The rubbers show little according to chartists who tell us better opportunities are available elsewhere . . . Some observers feel the market will not react until after the U. S. Steel meeting next week. . . All because they think the report is going to provide the "street" with the best industrial reading in years . . . We wonder about this for after all Steel is a long way from its most recent low point . . . Something was discounted and it probably was the good report expected . . . As a trader working on short term profit theory we would sell stocks on such reasoning, especially if prices firmed up materially between now and Tuesday.

STOCKS Snap BACK

MOTORS, STEEL POPULAR

New York, July 22—Stocks snapped back in today's market under leadership of motors and steels and gains of fractions to 3 or more points were well distributed later.

While bonds followed stocks at a more leisurely pace, commodities were uneven. The French franc suffered a new sinking spell, falling to another 11-year low in terms of the dollar and sterling.

Chrysler crossed 114 before meeting profit selling. U. S. Steel was a close second above 118 at the best. Virtually all groups participated to a greater or lesser extent in the quiet upswing.

Prominent on the advance were Bethlehem, Sloss-Sheffield, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Mack Truck, Motor Products, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, J. I. Case, Deere, Oliver Farm, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Electric Power & Light, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, American Locomotive, Briggs Manufacturing, Eaton Manufacturing, Electric Auto-Lite, Mohawk Carpet, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Paramount and Montgomery Ward.

CURRENT TOPICS

Searching for trend clues, analysts noted the contra-seasonal rise in commercial and industrial loans in recent weeks and some drew the conclusion this may mean a substantial upturn in business in the fall.

Normally the low point in commercial lending comes at the end of July or early in August. Last year the bottom was touched in June and a sharp recovery got under way in July. It was recalled there was a brisk increase in virtually all lines of business in succeeding months.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was off .00⅛ of a cent at 3.71⅛ cents. Sterling started at yesterday's closing rate, $4.98 5-16.

KETTERING VISIONS NEW CAR CHANGES

Vice President Charles F. Kettering of General Motors, addressing the American Society of Civil Engineers here, predicted vast changes as certain in automobiles and highways during the next 10 to 25 years. He declared "the 1937 car will look just as antiquated to us in 1960 as the 1912 car does to us now." This forecast was based, he explained, on the "policy of the automobile industry constantly to improve its product."

Mr. Kettering asserted need is growing for "high speed highways built to carry traffic safely" in order to maintain a higher average speed between cities. He found the "trend is for the performance of trucks and buses to more nearly equal that of passenger cars."

He complimented achievements of the tire manufacturers in making it possible for tire mileages to go up "from under 1000 in the early days until now we go over 20,000 or 30,000 and kick if we don't get it."

A great expansion in the use of trucks and buses lies immediately ahead, Mr. Kettering indicated, with the present trend toward many more smaller, faster, more mobile units. He said:

"The motor bus has definitely found a place in our transportation system and will have to be provided for in any future highway program."

Mr. Kettering told his hearers that statements that the truck will eventually drive the railroads out of business come only from those not acquainted with the problem of trucking, as at present the truck is usually not economical for distances greater than 250 miles or for other than higher grades of freight.

"There is plenty of business for both the truck and the railroad," he concluded.

Cattle Supply Off; Consumer Demand Up

Supply and demand in factors in the beef cattle industry are making for higher prices this summer and fall compared with last, according to the Bureau of Agriculture Economics beef cattle situation report issued.

The bureau said that "prices of most grades of slaughter cattle are expected to continue at higher levels than a year earlier through the late summer and early fall."

Slaughter supplies of cattle are expected to be smaller in the last half of 1937 than in the same period of 1936, when drouth resulted in the forced marketing of many cattle which otherwise would have been held on farms.

The bureau added that "consumer demand for meats is now somewhat greater than a year earlier and is likely to be well maintained near the present high level during the next few months."

A strong demand for stocker and feeder cattle is expected in late summer and fall, provided feed crop prospects continue favorable. This demand will tend to support prices of slaughter cattle in this period, "but the increase in the number of cattle placed on feed is likely to cause prices of the better grades of cattle to decline next winter and spring."

Except for a temporary recession in prices of choice and prime kinds in April and May, cattle prices have advanced steadily during the past 10 or 12 months. The number of well-finished grain-fed cattle has been much smaller than usual this year and marketings of such cattle are expected to continue small through late summer and fall.

The usual summer and fall decline in prices of the lower grades of slaughter cattle probably will be less than average this year because of the strong demand in prospect for stock and feeder cattle, the bureau said.

Gasoline Stocks Again Off Sharply

Stocks of gasoline witnessed another huge draft in the past week bringing them to a level where, on daily supply, they are in a slightly more favorable position than a year ago. This condition prevailed despite the fact that refinery operations were stepped up to the highest in history. Crude production showed a small increase.

The decline in gasolene stocks in the July 17 week, according to American Petroleum Institute figures, amounted to 1,430,000 barrels and lowered total inventories to 72,546,000 barrels, or the equivalent of slightly better than 43 days' supply on estimated July demand. So far in July it is estimated motor fuel demand has been running approximately 12 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago, or about the rate of gain estimated by the Bureau of Mines.

Runs of crude oil to stills averaged 3,415,000 barrels a day last week, the highest on record, and an increase of 90,000 barrels compared with the previous week. Capacity of refineries was estimated at 85.7 per cent, up 2.0 per cent from the July 10 week. The production of cracked gasoline, on the other hand, declined 35,000 barrels daily to around 705,000 barrels.

Slower Cotton Mill Operations Reported

In June the recent movement toward curtailment of cotton mill operations found its first definite reflection in official figures since the big bulge in activity began a year ago, reaching its peak last March. Both in New England and in the south, but more especially in the former, operations of active spindles tapered off appreciably last month.

During June the industry's 24,556,000 active spindles ran a total of 8,595,300,000 hours, an average of 79.5 hours per week on the basis of 22 working days during the month. This was the first time since last July, when the average was 77 hours per week, that the industry dipped under the 80-hour week that was the former maximum under the code. The peak in activity per spindle was reached in February at 86.1 hours per week, although in the longer working month of March the figure was very high at 85.4 hours per week.

Activity in the South dropped to 85 hours per week in June from 87.9 hours in May and the peak of 89.8 hours in February. New England, however, showed a much sharper decline to 65.8 hours in June from 70.5 in May to 77 in both February and March. Whatever moderate curtailment there has been to date is particularly marked in the case of the fine goods mills of the North.

From the peak of 7,323,300,000 hours in March, activity in the South was down 9.1 per cent to 6,655,800,000 hours in June. The New England decline was twice as sharp, or 18.7 per cent from 2,149,300,000 hours in March to 1,748,100,000 hours in June.

Movement of Gold Into U. S. Reversed

Washington, July 22 (INS)—For the first time in more than a year the movement of gold into the United States was reversed today when Treasury figures revealed $41,778,785 of the yellow metal had been exported.

Between July 20 and the previous day the government's $1,212,600,561 inactive gold fund decreased to $1,170,821,773.

The withdrawal of gold presumably was caused by recently adopted financial agreements between the United States and China and Brazil. Under the pact with China, the Treasury agreed to exchange substantial portions of gold for Chinese silver. By its accord with Brazil, the government promised to sell that country up to $60,000,000 of gold.

At present the United States holds $12,402,226,982 in gold, which represents more than half the world's visible supply.

Last December the treasury established an inactive fund into which it has placed all gold acquisitions since that date. Gold placed into this fund is paid for with borrowed money instead of with new currency, a move adopted to prevent inflation.

Bank Clearings Off Slightly in Week

New York, July 22 (AP)—Bank clearings for 22 leading cities in the week ended July 21, of $5,711,211,000 decreased 0.3 per cent from $5,731,232,000 for the like period last year, due chiefly to the poor showing made in New York, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

In the preceding week the year to year comparison indicated a gain of 15.8 per cent.

Clearings at New York were $3,355,421,000 against $3,561,464,000 for the 1936 comparative a drop of 5.8 per cent.

At outside centers, also, there was an increase of 8.6 per cent over last year, $2,355,790,000 against $2,169,768,000.

Leading the field with increases this week were Seattle up 24.1 per cent; Buffalo 22.8; Louisville 22.0, and Cleveland 19.1 per cent.

Chicago registered $338,000,000 against $301,900,000 last year an increase of 12.0 per cent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 Bids and Proposals

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS Metropolitan District Commission, Parks Division. Notice to Contractors.—Sealed proposals for furnishing and placing stone ballast shore protection from the end of granite faced sea wall about 400 feet northerly, Winthrop Shore Reservation, Winthrop, will be received at the office of the Metropolitan District Commission, 20 Somerset Street, Boston, until 1 p. m., Thursday, July 29, 1937. The wages paid to labor on this contract shall not be less than those prescribed by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries in accordance with Chapter 461, Mass. Acts of 1935, and set forth in a schedule of minimum wages in the contract. Proposals must be made upon the blank form furnished with the copy of the contract and specifications and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for the sum of $500.00. The work consists of 1000 tons of stone ballast. Copies of the form of contract and specifications and plan can be obtained at the office of the Director of Park Engineering, 20 Somerset Street, Boston. A deposit with the Financial Secretary of $2.00 will be required for the plan and pamphlet and if the plan is returned with a bid or the plan and pamphlet are returned before the bids are opened, this deposit will be refunded, otherwise it shall be forfeited. The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept the proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth. WILLIAM E. WHITTAKER, Secretary.

Pass the Alien Registration Bill!

IT IS good news to all AMERICANS that the McCormack alien registration bill has been reported favorably by the House judiciary committee.

This patriotic measure provides that ALL AGENTS, WHETHER ALIENS OR CITIZENS, EMPLOYED BY A FOREIGN GOVERNMENT, POLITICAL PARTY, ANY FOREIGNER OR ALIEN BUSINESS OR POLITICAL ORGANIZATION WHO ARE IN THIS COUNTRY MUST REGISTER WITH THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

The special committee, of which Representative McCormack of Massachusetts was chairman, lately uncovered incontrovertible proof that not only were Nazis, Communists and Fascists carrying on subversive operations in this country, but that there was economic and political propaganda going on here that was DIRECTLY INSPIRED BY GOVERNMENTS MAINLY CONSPICUOUS FOR THEIR ABILITY TO WRITE POLITE DEBT-DEFAULTING MISSIVES.

THIS country today is practically an INTERNATIONAL SALESROOM for every crack-brained idea that is at large in Europe.

The agents of these undermining enterprises go about unknown, unregistered, unmolested.

Some work with a brassy openness that would not be tolerated in any other country in the world.

Almost every incoming boat unloads its economic, financial or political envoy extraordinary from some government in Europe.

They come here to "pull our leg," rove around the White House and the congressional lobbies, handing us out everything they have got stored up in their tongues—but NOT A CENT ON THE $12,000,000,000 debt that Europe owes us because we listened to her "agents" twenty years ago.

Chairman Sumners of the House judiciary committee promises quick action on the bill on the floor of the House, and, best of all, the bill has the backing of the administration.

Pass the McCormack bill and make all alien "agents" and propagandists show their faces—and their PURPOSES.

Constitution Birthday

IT was fitting that Postmaster-General Farley should decide to issue on September 17 a special 3-cent postage stamp to mark the 150th anniversary of the Constitution.

President Roosevelt in a recent proclamation penned this momentous paragraph, worthy the deep perusal of all our people:

"WE SHALL RECOGNIZE THAT THE CONSTITUTION IS AN ENDURING INSTRUMENT FIT FOR THE GOVERNING OF A FAR-FLUNG POPULATION OF MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY MILLION ENGAGED IN DIVERSE AND VARIED PURSUITS, EVEN AS IT WAS FIT FOR THE GOVERNING OF A SMALL AGRARIAN NATION OF LESS THAN FOUR MILLION."

The President herein says that that mighty instrument of human freedom, the Constitution, contains ETERNAL TRUTHS.

The men who made that Constitution, with its wise provisions for orderly amendment by the people, made it to last for MANY CENTURIES.

Let us begin NOW to prepare for a great celebration on September 17.

And let us further swear NEVER to relax in our vigilance for and our allegiance of heart and head to the Constitution WHILE THESE UNITED STATES SHALL EXIST ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH.

Ship Building Boom

A BOOM for ship building seems to be in prospect for New England.

The Fore River plant at Quincy is making preparations for the building of many vessels as soon as the U. S. Maritime Commission, headed by Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston, enters upon its nation-wide program of merchant fleet construction.

From the capital comes the cheering news that members of the Massachusetts congressional delegation called on the Navy Department and requested MORE WORK for the Boston Navy Yard.

Other New England ship yards are looking forward to prosperity.

All of this spells JOBS in the near future for New England workers.

Citizen Training

AN educational policy which should meet with universal approval was announced by Dr. James Phinney Baxter, 3d, professor of history at Harvard University, who has just been named president of Williams College.

Dr. Baxter forsook the usual practice of speaking as a "know it all" elder to "know nothing" youth.

"In a small college emphasis should be placed on training men for citizenship rather than turning out great scholars," were his ringing words.

True citizenship is one of the things needed in this nation.

Peace and War

LARGE on the scene of world affairs looms the perilous balance between PEACE AND WAR.

Britain's Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, has served notice that if the rest of Europe wants war ENGLAND IS READY.

And H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service Correspondent, declares that this may be the most powerful influence for peace Europe could have.

England, he says, has "let the boys know that if it comes to fighting she will be in it."

Other European nations, knowing this, will be far less inclined to precipitate war. In other words, Britain's new policy of REARMING FOR PEACE seems to be GETTING RESULTS.

Who Said War?

Peruvian Gold

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

He was seedy and badly in need of a shave. His eyes were a little bloodshot and he looked as if he really needed a drink.

Edwin C. Hill

I hadn't done my good deed for that particular day, so I led him to a place where the vintner sold stuff almost as good as the stuff he buys. In return, he told me a yarn that was worth all it cost.

It seems (to hear him tell it) that he had been a civil engineer on a bridge-building job two or three miles up in those cloud-crowding Andes. He had picked up quite a smattering of the Peruvian Indian dialect—Quechua—and by that means he learned of the sacred lake full of gold. The Quechuas whispered about it when they thought no white man was near.

It was before the time of Pizarro and his Conquistadores that the priests of the sun god used to throw objects of solid gold into this mountain lake. Fishes made of gold, and golden llamas and golden snakes—tons of the stuff. The lake was so deep that no diver could reach the bottom, and so cold that no swimmer could stand it for minutes.

YARN CLOSE TO FACTS

All this had been going on for centuries, my seedy friend went on and, of course, the bottom of the lake was simply covered with gold, layers of it, all waiting for the right man to come along. He knew just where the lake was and how to get to it, and for the trivial sum of $50 would draw me a perfectly accurate map.

Some sort of baby submarine would be required, something like Simon Lake's underwater treasure hunter, and the rest would be easy. There would have to be a whack-up with the Peruvian authorities, of course.

Well, I didn't invest. I said I would think it over. But the yarn was so close to the historical facts, and so entirely possible that it made me think a bit. It made me think of the tale written down by Don Garcilasso de la Vega, as to how Pizarro came to Peru, he and his bearded Conquistadores, riding great war horses.

GREED INFLATED

The main capital of the Incas and their holy city was at Cuzco. The Inca, Atahuallpa, was ruling the Empire. Pizarro landed with a few men and horses and fell upon the defenseless Indians at Trujillo, the horses being especially frightful to the unarmed inhabitants. This particular section had formerly been under the rule of the Grand Chimu but had been brought under the sway of the Incas in the highlands.

The Spaniards found some gold, and the natives, by signs, told them there was more of it in the highlands. All that the Spaniards learned inflamed their greed. They heard (and it was all true enough) gold was not used as a money, but was gathered as something sacred to the Sun and turned over to the Incas, who used it for sewers, house-tiles, paneling, pots and pans, and to make huge representations of the Sun and such common animals as the llamps, alpaca, and varous fowls and reptiles, which they placed about their yards as ornaments.

EXECUTE RULER

So Pizarro captured Atahualipa and locked him up. This Son of the Sun was extremely sacred to the natives, and by signs they inquired what ransom would be enough to free the ruler.

There happened to be a huge stone room in the tower and there was a white line "a man and a half from the floor." Pizarro took the spokesman of the natives to the door and showed them the room and the white line and told them if they would fill it with gold up to that line he would set Athualipa free.

Within a few hours the word went forth by runners and millions of people were at work gathering gold and trundling it toward Caja Marca. They brought life-sized animals, slabs, paving bricks, sacks of gold, and soon filled it heaping full above the line.

Other tons of gold were on the way, but Pizarro decided to put the Inca to death. He took him to Quito and after giving him his choice by means of signs and waving a crucifix before his eyes whether he would die an infidel or embrace Christianity, he was christened Francisco, and strangled.

MANY GOLD TALES

It was the gold that was on the way that has given rise to myriad hidden treasure stories. Some say the natives tossed their burdens in the lakes, hid them in caves and holes in the ground and in cellars, when word came to them the ruler had been treacherously executed in spite of the ransom.

The Spaniards ran amok, taking all gold they could rip from palaces and temples, and hundreds of galleons of gold started to Spain. Twenty-two billions of dollars went across the bar into Madrid in the space of a few years, besides what the English and other pirates captured en route and what was locally stolen in Panama and other places.

There is hardly an island along the Pacific Coast between Panama and Chile which hasn't its treasure story, and scores of these stories could easily be true. Even the yarn spun by my seedy friend.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 22—Not many public gifts have been bestowed so unostentatiously as that of the $20,000,000 art collection Jules S. Bache, the banker, gave to the city recently. Tossing in his Fifth avenue home for a museum to house it and providing endowment for maintenance.

O. O. McIntyre

Bache had his lawyer announce the donation several hours after he was on the high seas, headed for Europe to visit his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Miller. The collection is one of the finest private selections in the world, comparable to those of Mellon and Widener.

The donor, a roly-poly worldling with precise mustache and monocle clapped in eye, is a look-alike for E. Phillips Oppenheim. At 76 he is a lively patron of the arts, accomplished bon vivant and a striking figure at important first nights. Recently he was headlined as a tax evasionist.

For years the banker has been a citizen of the world, maintaining fully staffed establishments in London, Paris, New York and Palm Beach. His select and private dinners are models for gourmets. He has, as much as any man of his time, enjoyed life to the fullest.

Interlude: I popped in on my dentist, Guy Campbell, again yesterday. We agreed as I settled in the chair that it was a wonderfully fine day, so fine indeed that he decided to yank one of the few remaining stumps. I came up bleeding and complaining! "I don't have any fun any more"—but we continued to agree it was a wonderfully fine day.

They were talking of the wonders at world fairs, especially the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. All in the discussion were around my age and most of them recalled artistic touches of architecture, marvelous ground planning and exquisite dome mosaics. Which more than ever impressed me with the utter worthlessness of my mind. The only thing that impressed itself upon me indelibly at the Chicago Fair was a horse made of prunes.

Too, of all the philosophy I heard during boyhood, that which clings most firmly to mind was uttered by a Silly Joe who, talking to himself, muttered: "I get all I want to eat without work and still they call me crazy."

I have just seen a circular letter from one of the civic organizations touching on the subject of Communism. It is—to use the deb's overworked word—"definitely" an alarmist's epistle. It says Hitlerism and Fascism, whatever their faults, were organized to combat the Moscow menace. That Franco's battle in Spain is simply the honest people fighting the Red influence. And that Trotzky is now at our border for a purpose—and, finally, its time for the boys here to come down out of the hills with their squirrel guns. All very depressing on a sunny day.

Most of us are more unselfish than we think. An excitable fellow at times—oh, well, it was this winter if you must know—I flared up the other day and shrieked something that lacked courtesy to a fair and lovely lady visitor. Both of us were immediately miserable about it. I slept badly two nights. Today I thought of sending flowers and did. But an honest analyzing flushes out the truth—that the gift wasn't so much to help the lady as to relieve my own state of discomfiture.

One of the cartoonists has a variant of the "Keep Smiling" sign in his studio. It reads "Don't Get Sore." I abhor grinners, so I like the new note. I lived more than half my life before I learned the value of silence under every attack, no matter how unfair. Retaliation gets nowhere. If one has been unjustly maligned, Time will do more to rectify the error than issuing denials and far more effectively and convincingly. One has only to wait.

No one tops Bugs Baer for cock-eyed exaggerations. For instance, his recent crack about the Black Tom explosion and the cash settlements being demanded. Baer said that for his part, he owed them a nickel because the explosion put a head on a glass of beer he was holding in Times Square.

Listen, World!

WOO-OO-EEE — BAM — CRASH!

Clickety-click-click-click . . .

Elsie Robinson

Three o'clock in the morning . . . black as a bat outside. Almost as black here in this little room, too; air so gummed with cigarette smoke.

But what of that?

Red-eyed, fuzzy-witted, groggy with coffee, we're hanging over the short wave band of the radio. Hundreds, thousands of us, all along the Pacific Coast . . . up in the lonely Sierra . . . out in the wild Rockies . . . all over America . . . hundred thousand weary men and women hanging over that short wave band. Waiting . . . hoping . . . praying . . . listening—MY GOD, HOW WE ARE LISTENING!—for a call from Amelia Earhart.

WORLD IS KIND

So—come along! Here we go again! Maybe we'll get it this time. But whether we do, or whether we don't—

WE'LL GIVE THEM ALL WE'VE GOT!

* * *

Night after night it was like that. Now—with the headache I prophesied—I'm writing it down. Wonder how many heart-twisting stories like this I've sat in on in nearly twenty years of news nosing. Can't remember. But each one has made me more convinced of one heartening fact—the world is kind.

I've seen humane functioning under practically every conceivable condition of fright, anger, greed and curiosity. I have pictures on my mind which I'd give plenty to have blotted out . . . ghastly evidence of man's more brutal side. And yet I still believe that taking us by and large, WE'RE KIND.

DOUBTS THRILL THEORY

Yes, I know what you're going to say. That those hundreds of thousands of dead-tired men and women aren't animated by kindness . . . that they aren't trying to grasp a bit of comfort out of the ether for that heart-wrung husband and wife . . . that we're all motivated by curiosity, mob excitement—just giving ourselves a thrill. But I don't believe it.

We have thrills enough, most of us, without beating ourselves like this. We have interests of our own, highly profitable interests, which require rested bodies, cool minds. Yet we're passing up those interests, we're jeopardizing those profits—because we're moved by something deeper than greed or egotism!

And I've seen that proved over and over. Seen tough, hard-boiled men toss their lives away as carelessly as you'd toss a burned-out cigarette butt, to save some baby they'd never seen, to rescue some shivering pup.

EYES WET WITH PITY

And I've seen shrill, callous females, schooled in every devilment on earth, go tender as Madonnas to help some despairing sister.

Hand on to your smart cynicism if you want. But I'm telling you there's something finer, something lovelier, that you're passing up.

Yes, we still turn brute—at times. And our average record certainly doesn't rate any medals. But the gentleness that came to earth that starry night didn't die on Calvary. It lived! It lives today! Haggard . . . punch-drunk with weariness . . . groggy from too much coffee . . . it bends over a short wave radio band—AND ITS EYES ARE WET WITH PITY.

On the Nail

A new way around the world! Over both Poles!

A dispatch from Portland, Ore., says that that is what the Russian fliers next contemplate.

Look at your revolving globe and see what an amazing feat this would be if it were a non-stop flight.

This flight could be made the ONLY STRAIGHTAWAY ALL-WATER COURSE AROUND THE WORLD.

Suppose in hopping off from the North Pole the plane coasted down the 30th degree of longitude to the South Pole and then flew back to the North Pole by coasting up the 180th degree.

This would be a clear Atlantic-Pacific ocean flight. It could be done WITHOUT SEEING PRACTICALLY ANY LAND. The distance would be about 25,000 miles.

The man who first does that will be crowned the NAPOLEON OF THE AIR.

Peiping, the big city of northern China toward which the eyes of the world are now turned, is a place where mystery and grandeur have united to carve out a city whose history reads like a story from the "ARABIAN NIGHTS."

Kublai Khan (The "Great King") laid out what is now Peiping in the fourteenth century. Marco Polo called on the Khan and they both were "sold" on one another. The Khan was particularly well "sold," as Marco was the first and the greatest of European salesmen.

The life of Kublai Khan, ruthless warrior, female-fancier and founder of an empire, is almost fabulous.

It was of Kublai Khan that Coleridge, the English poet, wrote these celebrated lines, which he said came to him in a dream:

"IN XANADU DID KUBLAI KHAN
A STATELY PLEASURE-DOME DECREE,
WHERE ALPH, THE SACRED RIVER RAN,
THROUGH CAVERNS MEASURELESS TO MAN
DOWN TO A SUNLESS SEA."

No one knows where Xanadu was. It was probably Peiping, where the "pleasure-domes" of the great Khan may soon be laid in the dust by Japanese bombing planes.

Sir John Simon, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, after the passage of his finance bill through the House of Commons, warned of dire penalties for those who evade their taxes.

"METHODS OF TAX EVASION," said Sir John, "ARE EXTREMELY COMPLICATED, AND I DO NOT WISH TO GIVE THEM ADVERTISEMENT."

We might remind the British Chancellor of the Exchequer that methods of DEBT EVASION are not so complicated, and therefore all the more glaring.

The British taxpayer must have his tongue in his cheek when he is told by the Chancellor that he is a tax-dodger when he remembers that his own government has been dodging a debt of $5,000,000,000 to the United States for some years.

The fact that any one in an official position in Washington will admit that there is something that is none of his business constitutes NEWS.

Vice-President Garner said after the death of Senator Robinson: "SELECTION OF A FLOOR LEADER IS NONE OF MY BUSINESS."

As Vice-President of the United States and presiding officer of the Senate, Mr. Garner, although a Democrat, believes it a point of honor not to interfere in a purely political matter.

This is a good definition of a "statesman" as distinct from a politician.

That's That

Styles change in war as in wearing apparel, automobiles, architecture and other things. It used to be that there was a certain formality connected with the beginning of war. When nations fell out, they severed diplomatic relations and then followed this step with a formal declaration of war. Now, the practice is to do most fighting informally. Off and on, for years, Japan and China have been scrapping without any formal recognition of the existence of a state of war. Germany and Italy have been at war with Russia and France in Spain for months, calling their conflict the Spanish Civil War.

The Labor Relations Board accuses the Republic Steel Corporation of violating the Wagner Act. One of the charges against the company is PROMOTING "BACK-TO-WORK" MOVEMENTS DURING A STRIKE. Is it possible that, in case of a strike, there isn't anything an employer can do lawfully to get his employes to return to work? Don't men who want to work have any rights at all? Is it the policy of the government to promote nothing but strikes and that at a time when unemployment constitutes the most serious national problem?

It seems to be the theory of the Wagner Act that the employer always is wrong and that no employer ever can be trusted to do anything fair or decent unless a club is used on him. Under this law, no employer has any rights or is entitled to any protection. The only unfair practices covered in the Wagner Act are acts of employers. So far as that act goes, no labor organization can do anything wrong and no employer can do anything that is right. What a strange way of promoting industrial peace!

There isn't any doubt that safety campaigns pay, and pay big dividends. According to an estimate by the State Industrial Commission, such campaigns are saving industrial plants in Toledo five million dollars a year by reducing the frequency and severity of accidents. The "safety first" campaign which the railroads have been conducting for years has saved them huge sums of money in addition to the loss of life and the suffering it has prevented.

Announcement in Washington, D. C., that every state and territory now has an "approved" social security law complementing the Federal legislation shows how effectively the power of money can be used to establish a Federal dictatorship over supposedly sovereign states. Under the Constitution, Congress could not say to the states "you MUST pass old age pension and unemployment insurance laws dictated by a Federal board." But it got the same results by saying "if you don't establish old age pension and unemployment insurance systems which are approved by the National Social Security Board, you won't get any Federal money." There isn't much that a state won't do to get a hand into the Federal treasury.
